NOW CLEAN TEETH WHITER THIS FASTER WAY

INSTANTLY KILLS GERMS THAT CAUSE MOST ORAL TROUBLES

START brushing your teeth with KOLYNOL. In just 3 days they'll look 3 shades whiter. They'll feel much cleaner. Here's the reason: KOLYNOL does what ordinary toothpaste can't do. As it cleans up ugly stains and tartar, it foams into every tiny crevice and kills millions of germs that are the known cause of most tooth and gum troubles. Thus KOLYNOL gives RESULTS YOU CAN SEE. Cleaner, whiter teeth. Healthier looking gums. Give up incompetent ways of brushing and start using the KOLYNOL technique—a half-inch of this remarkable dental cream on a dry brush twice a day. It's the better, quicker way to cleaner, whiter teeth. Try it.

A Week In Germany

MOURNING FOR LATE PRESIDENT

By a Berlin Correspondent.

Berlin, Aug. 7.

The flags are hanging at half-mast. Germany mourns the greatest man of her race for many decades past. The death of the aged Field-Marshal means more for Germany than merely a leaving-taking from the head of the State. For the German people Hindenburg was a symbol of faithfulness, trustworthiness and the conscientious fulfilment of duty. Hindenburg has been justly called the father of his country. As Commander-in-chief of an Imperial army he freed East Prussia from the Russians during the World War and also performed great deeds for Germany on the Western front and gained not only the love and affection of his people but also the esteem and admiration of his opponents.

When the German Republic later on required his service he did not refuse to follow the call of his people, although at heart he was a convinced monarchist, and he placed all his energy and strength at the disposal of the German Reich. During the period of stormy development after the establishment of the Republic, Hindenburg was the stationary pole in the political life and work of Germany. Now he rests amidst his fallen comrades in the East Prussian earth at the place where, almost 20 years ago, he brought about the decisive turning point in the events of the East. The wearing of signs of mourning for 14 days throughout the country is merely the outward sign of the grief of the German people and it will be a very long time before this grief is allayed. The whole world mourns with Germany. The rich abundance of proofs from abroad of deepest veneration for the great deceased and of sympathy with the bereaved have been gratefully noted in Germany.

The great guesswork in regard to the question of a successor for the Reich-President soon came to an end. The solution of this question, which combines for the future the position of the Reich-President with that of the Reich-Chancellor means consistently carrying out the national-socialist idea of the leadership principle. In consequence of the far-reaching importance of this regulation of the question the German Government has decided to ask the German people as a whole to express an opinion as to this measure and at the same time the Government solicits a vote of confidence by means of a free and secret vote of all citizens. As matters lie there exists no doubt that in this year also the German people will take its stand behind the leader in an overwhelming majority.

One of the last official acts carried out by the late Reich-President was the signing of the deeds referring to entrusting the President of the Reichsbank, Dr. Schacht, with the conduct of all matters hitherto under the control of the Minister for Social and Economic Affairs, who is ill and unable to attend to his duties. The far-reaching plenary powers conferred on the said Minister in the course of the last few months in all questions affecting the economic life of the State, have thus passed over to Dr. Schacht. The unification in the conduct of the Ministry for Social and Economic Affairs and of the Reichsbank represents an extraordinary plenitude of power and leads to the supposition that a uniform line may be expected in economic and the commercial policy of the Reich. The personality of Dr. Schacht is a guarantee that the stability of the currency will be maintained under all circumstances. In the sphere of money matters therefore it may definitely be stated that no

SAGO AND BANANA CREAM

SOAK overnight three-quarter breakfastful sago. Next morning, thinly slice six small bananas, and simmer these in a little water till tender. Sweeten to the sago with as much water as is necessary (probably about three breakfastfuls) and cook till thick and clear. Allow to cool, then add a breakfastful whipped cream, folding it in lightly. Turn into a glass dish and garnish with whipped cream before serving.

experiments are to be expected. On the other hand however this new appointment for Dr. Schacht encourages the hope in Germany of a solution of the urgent problems connected with the scarcity of foreign bills, and paper, and the procuring of raw materials.

The granting of the agreement in Vienna for Herr von Papen was awaited in Germany with much interest. Here it was not possible to give any credence to the rumours of a possible refusal to issue the agreement, for it appeared quite incredible that Austria would be able to reject the hand thus held out to her in a spirit of reconciliation. The final approval by Vienna of Herr von Papen as Ambassador for Germany was therefore not unexpected here. From the activity of the new Ambassador in Vienna Germany hopes for a relaxation of the present tension and the resumption of normal and friendly relations between Germany and Austria. The confidence felt by the Reichskanzler and also by the deceased Reich-President that Herr von Papen will succeed in mastering the existing difficulties is quite general throughout Germany.

During the past week the 5th. World Congress of the Baptists was in session in Berlin. More than 1,200 Baptists had come to Berlin to attend this Congress as representatives of 60 different countries of the earth. Berlin was selected as a place of assemblage on the occasion of the centenary of the Baptist communion in Germany. In these 100 years the German congregation of Baptists has increased to 70,000 souls, whilst the number of Baptists distributed throughout the world is estimated at 12 millions. Numerous reports and statements were presented and various festivities and meetings took place under the auspices of the Congress that excited much interest beyond the circle of the Baptists. A deputation, led by the President and the General Secre-

DIVORCE POINT

AN IMPORTANT RULING

It was laid down by Mr. Justice Langton in a reserved judgment in the London Divorce Court that a statement filed by a husband petitioner in asking the exercise of the discretion of the Court in his favour in respect of his own adultery may not, where his suit is dismissed, afterwards be used by his wife as the chief ground of her petition for divorce against him.

In the case before Mr. Justice Langton, Mrs. Margaret Beatrix Bevis, living in a caravan at Woburn Sands, Bucks, asked for divorce from her husband, Mr. Leslie Cubitt Bevis, an art master, whose suit for divorce was dismissed by the President, Sir Boyd Merriam, on December 12 last. In that petition Mr. Bevis filed a statement under the direction of the Court admitting his own adultery.

Mrs. Bevis's suit was not defended. Mrs. Bevis asked for the exercise of the discretion of the Court in her own favour in respect of her admitted adultery with one of the masters at the school where her husband was art master, and her case was that her husband "purposely" threw them together.

Mr. Justice Langton said it would be against the course of natural justice that a statement of admissions made by a husband by the direction of the Court should afterwards be used as the basis of the wife's petition, and it would further open the door to another form of collusion.

He would not actually dismiss the present petition of the wife, but adjourn it to next term to see whether it should then be dismissed, or whether they could go further with it, or it might be desired to appeal from his decision.

It was against his Lordship's idea of natural justice that, because a man was obliged in the pursuit of one object in Court to make certain admissions, those admissions should be considered to be admission to all the world to be used to his detriment in other proceedings.

Admissions were admissions for the proceedings in which they were required. If they could be used elsewhere it would open the door to people who were minded to put a false case before the Court, and he had to admit there were such people—and enable them to use admissions of this kind quite unscrupulously.

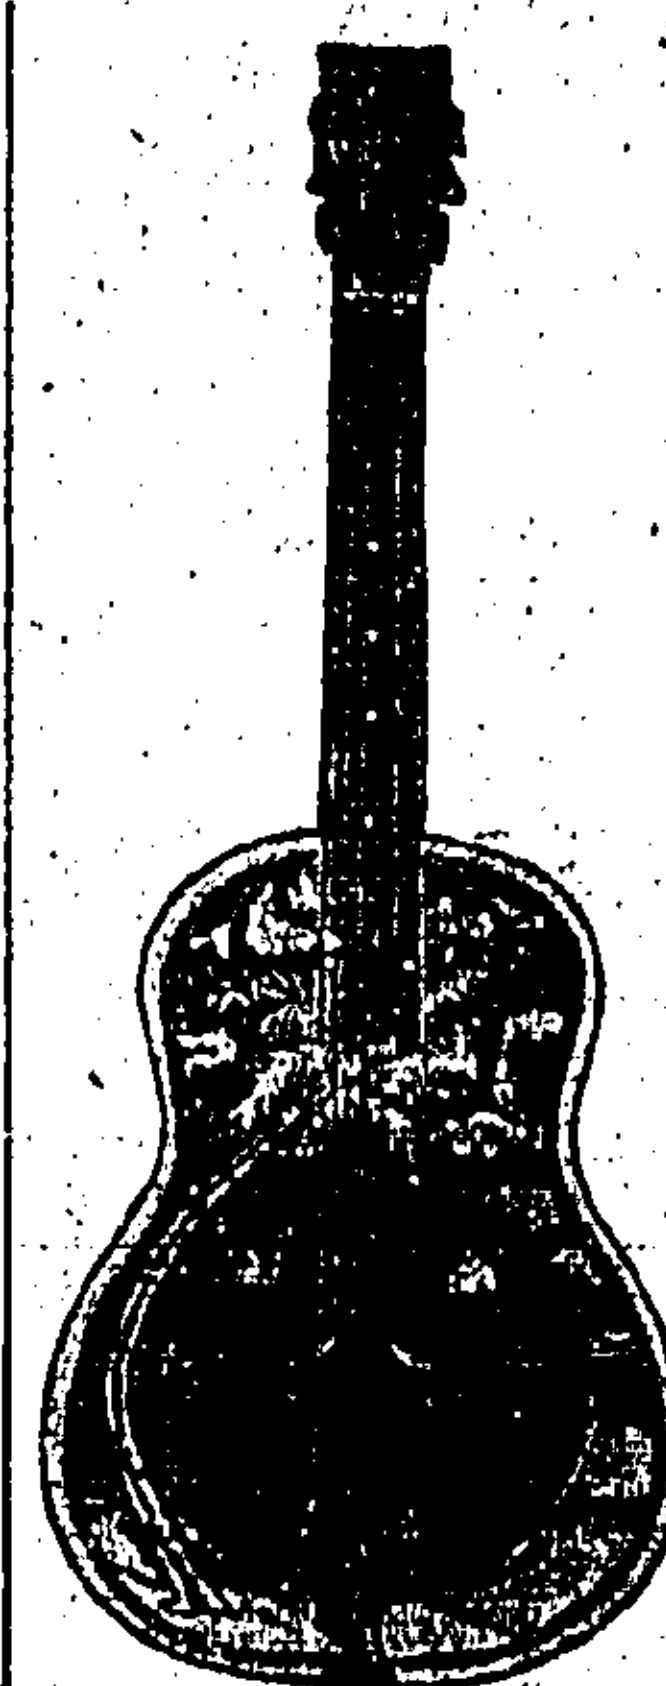

The result was unfortunate for the wife in this case. He did not disbelieve her, but his ruling left her in the difficulty that she could not secure a decree upon this evidence. He would leave it open to her to bring forward her petition under further and better evidence, but that was the best he could do for her in the present circumstances.

tary of the World Association of Baptists, was received by the German Reich-Bishop, who assured his visitors cordially that a compulsory incorporation of the German Baptist community in the German Reich-Church did not come into consideration at all, and for all evangelical Christians only one authority is decisive:—Jesus Christ and his gospel.

The German Tennis Championship Games, at present being played in Hamburg, are also of international interest. From year to year the importance of this Meeting increases. This year 16 nations are striving in friendly competition to secure the highest rank in German tennis. During these days Hamburg is the place of pilgrimage of an almost endless number of German and foreign tennis enthusiasts. The final decisions will however not ensue until the beginning of next week.

NATIONAL STRING INSTRUMENTS

(GUITARS, MANDOLINS AND UKULELES)

Lead because they agree with the following five points—

1. Powerful, rich, dynamic tone.
2. Perfect intonation.
3. Exquisite finish.
4. Unaffected by weather, water or temperature.
5. Will not crack or warp with ordinary care.

They are ideal for the beginner. It is a great mistake to buy a cheap musical instrument of any kind for a beginner. NOT ONLY DO THE POOR TONES OF A POOR INSTRUMENT TEND TO LESSEN THE PUPIL'S MUSICAL PERCEPTION BUT THERE IS NO TIME WHEN INSPIRATION IS MORE NEEDED THAN WHILE LEARNING TO PLAY.

To inspire the highest efforts it is essential to provide an instrument worthy of admiration and care.

SOPHIE KERR'S LATEST SUCCESS IN ROMANTIC PROBLEM FICTION "STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

CHAPTER XLII

"If I live to be ten thousand, or a hundred thousand or a million," said Alice Moreland, "I'll never forget the day you and Howard came home after he'd been sick with pneumonia, and you'd just got him to bed when I came dashing over to tell you that Edgar'd been captured by the Germans—and I was so happy because he wouldn't have to fight any more and I could send him proper food and things. We stood there hugging each other and laughing with joy, because your husband was threatened with tuberculosis and mine was a prisoner of war! My dear, weren't we funny!"

"And that," said Amy, "was 15 years ago."

"I don't realize it until I look at the children. Nancy, a young lady, with suitors simply standing in line, and Howard Second as tall as his father, and my Virginia almost 14 and pouting because I won't let her carry a vanity case, and young Ned entering grammar school next fall. They make me feel old as the hills."

"You don't look old, Alice. You don't look much older than Virginia."

"If I could only thin down a little! The styles are all so slimmy—not that I can afford any new clothes. I'm going to sew ruffles on all my last summer dresses and wear them again. I've got to. I told Edgar if he said one more word about business being bad I'd go out and buy me a whole new outfit, and he said, all right, it'll look swell in the parlorhouse."

Amy laughed. "The faculty's about due for another cut, so I won't be getting anything new either. I'll have to fix up something for the Commencement parties, though. But I think I can find a piece of lace or chiffon over in Hopsonville and use my old blue satin for a slip. Nancy must have a couple of frocks, too."

"That young English instructor—what's his name—Carver—is giving Nancy a big rush, isn't he?"

And Victor Gates, too, the one the boys call Vee Gates. But I thought, the other night at the Borwyns' party, that Nancy favoured the instructor."

"I don't know, Alice. They come—and go too fast for me to keep their ratings straight. Yesterday Nancy was asking Howard for his volume of Ibsen. That looks like Richard Carver. Then Victor telephoned and he's coming up to try some new rhumba steps to-night when the Cubans are on the radio. So there you are."

"And the French professor last year—"

"Poor Blanchard—he did have it bad! I was glad that he didn't come back this year."

"Nancy's just like you, Amy. Edgar always says you had all the beaux in Marburg when you were a girl. She must have inherited it."

Amy looked at her visitor oddly. "You forget," she said, "Nancy's not my own daughter."

"I always forget it. She seems like your own. Well, her mother must have been a heart-breaker, too."

With a flash of memory Amy recalled that none of the Marburg young men had ever liked Jane. They didn't go to see her nor take her about. But she could not tell that to Alice for Alice did not know whose child Nancy was. The secret had been well kept.

Nancy herself had asked, once, and Amy had said that all she could tell her was that her real mother was a beautiful and clever woman, whose circumstances wouldn't permit her to keep her child. Amy had wondered since if Nancy thought about it, or brooded over it privately, but she could never see a sign of it. There was nothing brooding or morbid about the spirited, active Nancy.

For a moment Amy wished that she had not brought up the subject with Alice. She was very fond of Alice and their neighbourly intimacy had always gone on without any hitches or breaks, hurt feelings or slight misunderstandings, but Alice's nose for news was sometimes a bit too sharp. Amy awaited her next remark with special attention, but it was not needed. Alice had skittered on to another subject.

"Everybody expects Howard will be the new dean," she said, "when the trustees meet. Do you want him to be, Amy? Won't it be pretty much of a chore for you?"

"I shan't count my chores before I know I've got to do them. Nothing's settled—so I can't say anything."

"Well, I know, but with all you do anyway—choral class and glee club coaching and the women's choir and the concert series and private pupils, and there's such a lot of required entertaining in the dean's house. Of course Howard would be perfectly splendid, and everyone hopes he'll get it. Me, I'd like to see him preside over the college—I just thought it would be a load for you. I've always noticed that it's the faculty women who get the mean part of a big job—I've said to Edgar hundreds of times that I'm glad he's a coal dealer. But now, with business so bad, well, the college professors do get fixed salaries."

"I wish they were a little more fixed. They've been sliding backward for two years now. But I needn't complain. We do very well even if we don't swagger in sables and loll in limousines, as Nancy says." She glanced at the clock. "You come along out in the kitchen with me while I mix up some quick gingerbread," she said. "I have to go to the glee club rehearsal and I'll just have time to bake it."

"I'd better get along home and make some myself. Do you use the soda and sour cream recipe?" "I haven't any sour cream today, so I'll jazz it up with a cup of raisins. Young Howard loves it that way."

As soon as Alice was out of the door, Amy hurried to the kitchen and her mixing bowl.

Nancy opened the door, little green hat cocked over one ear, eyes very bright, cheeks very pink. "Oh, there you are, Mother. What is it, gingerbread? Let me do it and you go change for the boys' glee club, tra-la, tra-la!"

"What have you been up to? You look so monkeyish!" Hand me the raisins."

Nancy giggled. "You're looking at Marburg's most popular gal, my lamb. So far four lads have tried to date me for the first dance out at the Lake Club. Vee Gates, first, Bill Dowling second, Red Purdy, third, and who'd you think was the fourth? No less than the distinguished bachelor, Mr. James Trainor, lawyer, banker, man about town—and so far as I'm concerned, just a sprig of poison ivy, or a human hangnail. Here, I'll put that in the oven and watch it."

"I take it you're not going with Jimmy, then?"

"Not even if all the other men in town had broken legs! Nor am I going with Bill, nor yet with Vee. And so what? Come along, ask me. Mother, you're giving me a very strange look. What's the matter?"

"Nothing, I was thinking of something else. Now what is it about the Lake Club dance, and why are you turning down Vee and Bill? Is that what you want me to ask?"

"Well, darling, it's like this. I think maybe another boy friend will ask me, and of course he may not, and then, you observe, I'll lose out entirely. And it's so exciting to wait and wonder and to put everybody else off."

"You crazy young one. Serve you right if you did lose out. Shall I ask any more questions?"

"Maybe better not, but you can do a lot of silent guesswork if you're so minded."

"I must go and dress," said Amy. "Watch the gingerbread. It burns so easily. Can you come along with me and take some music down to the church? I promised I'd leave it there yesterday."

"Why not?" said Nancy. As she went upstairs Amy heard, "I've Got the World on a String" blithely whistled in the kitchen.

"It must be Dick Carver!" thought Amy. "Another professor's wife in the family! But he'll get along, he's got just the right blend of push and politics with real ability to back it up. And he's as sweet-tempered and generous as Howard."

"The gingerbread's done, and I do say it myself. I baked it in truly masterly fashion. I am a

NULLAH TRAGEDY

BRITISH BOY FALLS TO HIS DEATH

A distressing accident occurred yesterday afternoon, when little Guy Hollands, aged 10 years, the son of Mr. W. E. Hollands, of the Public Works Department, and Mrs. Hollands, fell into a nullah and fractured his skull, dying later at the Government Civil Hospital.

It appears that the boy was playing with his brother and sister by the nullah at the Mount Parish Government Quarters when he slipped and fell from a height of 25 feet, striking his head.

He was immediately taken out of the nullah and rushed to the Government Civil Hospital; but, in spite of medical attention, he passed away at 11.30 o'clock last night.

The funeral will pass the Monument at 5.30 this afternoon.

MUNITIONS MAKERS

EXPOSE ANTICIPATED IN AMERICA

Washington, Aug. 28. Disclosures of the existing relations between United States armament manufacturers and large foreign firms are foreshadowed by Senator Pope, a member of the Senate's Special Munitions Investigation Committee, which meets on September 4.

Senator Pope declared that the records of the Navy Department and many private firms "disclosed interesting international situations."

He predicted that the Committee would likely investigate the shipments of scrap iron from the United States to Japan, which, according to the Department of Commerce Report, was 101,293 tons out of a total of 155,812 tons exported from the United States in July.—Reuter.

"STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

good cook, Mother. Don't you think?" was Nancy's greeting as Amy came down.

"Especially Hollandaise sauce!" "That's not fair. You know the sauce was all right, only I forgot that I was making half quantity and put in all the lemon juice."

"The sauce was perfect except that it was so sour we couldn't eat it."

"Anyway, it taught me a good lesson. I put the gingerbread on the top shelf of the pantry hoping that young Howard wouldn't find it. Mother, you ought to have a bank vault with a time lock for special desserts. You know what old Lillian said the last time he was over at Grandmother Lowe's? She said, 'At boy eats cake like they ain't no God.'"

They were walking side by side toward the campus. As they passed the Terry house Nancy exclaimed: "There, when I've done your errand I'm going to come back and run in to visit with Miss Rosa for a while. She's so lonely, poor soul, and such fun, too. You stop by for me on your way back. She's always saying she never sees you. Then you can stay a few minutes and we'll go home together." She gave Amy's arm a quick ecstatic squeeze.

At the rehearsal room Nancy took the music books, nodded with careless condescension to the members of the glee club—the students were "those brats" to her—and disappeared. Amy composed herself to trying an arrangement of "Yeomen of England," which she had made with allowance for the weakness of strong bass voices in the club, and after that there was a group of spirituals to be gone over—"Balm of Gilead," "I Got Shoes," and the inevitable "I Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray." Then a final struggle with the only boy in college who had a really fine voice, but absolutely no musical instinct, the only adequate soloist.

Amy felt frayed from the strain when she started home, so much so that she forgot Nancy until she had passed the Terry house. She hurried back, opened the door without ringing and was just about to call Nancy when she heard her voice in the parlour and then another voice that Amy recognized instantly. It could belong only to Jane, Jane whom she had not seen for 15 years.

AUSTRIA'S "BROWN BOOK"

Austria's determination to expose the part which German organisers played in the July putsch in Vienna is not difficult to understand. If proof of complicity exists, it is just as well to have it upon record. Beyond that, however, Dr. Schuschnigg, is not likely to receive much encouragement from the powers of Europe. The dangers that existed in the days of tension immediately following the death of Dr. Dollfuss have passed. Few will be willing to join in any measures, either at Geneva or elsewhere, which can only have the effect of stirring up further unpleasantness, for no good reason. For, after all, if Herr Hitler's action in the Vienna crisis can be interpreted as a permanent modification of his policy, he has already done much to repair the damage caused by the provocative propaganda and activities of the National Socialist Party in Austria. In the main, only two developments, could provoke foreign intervention. The first would be the inability of the constituted authorities to maintain order. The second would be an overt act from the German side of the Austro-German border. Both were avoided in the time of crisis and are out of the question now. The stringent measure taken by Prince von Starheimberg to suppress revolutionary activity accomplished their purpose. Across the border Chancellor Hitler took every possible action to halt German embroilment in the situation. His orders scotched the plans of the "Austrian Legion" of National Socialists to march across the border from Munich. And his dismissal of the two party chieftains who had charge of the German activities in Austria gave effect to the desire of der Fuehrer to abandon the inflammatory Austrian policy which was so much a part of his doctrine before he came to

NOTES OF THE DAY

METAPHORICALLY SPEAKING

Current discussions of disarmament frequently employ a metaphor which is of very doubtful validity. National armies are denominated the police forces of the world, and this figure of speech reconciles many peace-loving persons to schemes of rearmament that they might otherwise look upon in a very different light. That a more simile should exercise such an influence upon individual thought is no new phenomenon. Persons acquainted with the history of medieval political theory will recall how republicanism was regarded for centuries in many countries wicked because the (mistaken) assumption that there was only one sun in the sky led to the metaphorical identification of a single personal ruler with this sun and the consequent conferring upon monarchy of a sanction as though it were part of the order of nature. It therefore behooves thinking people to examine their metaphors—to recognise that between national armies and national police forces there are several important differences. In the first place, in some countries, as for instance Great Britain, the police force is practically unarmed, and the physical consequences arising from its actions are not in any way comparable with those resulting from the activities of a fully equipped military force.

A FALLACY.

Again, police squads and individuals work under severely applied rules, and these rules can be appealed to for protection by the very people against whom the police are at any moment acting. This is not the case with an army, for even such "laws" of war as exist often gain little observance once hostilities have begun. Thirdly, the aims of the police and of an army are generally not the same. The police do not as a rule set out to destroy the opposing force. They attempt primarily to bring this opposing force to the bar of justice. But armies do not set out to bring the "enemy" before the bar of international justice, for no such bar in any practical sense exists. But if the establishment of this bar were made the definite aim of international policy, the distinction between armies and police forces might then tend to disappear. This does not necessarily mean that national armies are unjustifiable. But it does indicate the fallacy of giving facile approval to the reckless increase of armed forces on the assumption that such forces are a normal, peaceful, law-abiding and law-preserving police establishment.

GERMAN SHIPPING

The readiness of the German Government to take part in an international Conference for settling the problem of shipping subsidies and related questions has been welcomed by British shipowners. Those of them who are aware of the adverse consequences that must result from a more active policy of subsidisation on the part of the British Government have recently taken up somewhat more pessimistic attitude towards this subject, because after the notes sent by the Scandinavian countries, the Netherlands and Greece no further declarations in favour of a Conference have been received and because the more important shipping countries have refrained so far from expressing any opinions. It is these owners who especially welcome the German reply. It is pointed out by them that Germany's attitude may strengthen Mr. Bonciman, the President of the Board of Trade, in his professed dislike of subsidies, despite the criticism to which he has exposed himself thereby.

power. Moreover, the despatch of von Papen as "peace" emissary to Vienna, indicates that Germany is taking every means to keep its desire for Austro-German union from being linked with a premature move of an extreme minority which took too seriously the Munich propaganda favouring forceful unification of the two countries. Objections to the union of Austria and Germany cannot for ever stand in the face of the inherent ethnic and economic justification for the Anschluss. But as long as force and coercion are used as the methods by which this union is sought, there will be logical and insuperable reasons for many nations on the continent to oppose vigorously a Teutonic bloc that would extend from the Brenner to the Baltic. Herr Hitler appears to-day to realise this as well as any.

1914—1934 PROFIT AND LOSS

By ROBERT LYND

WHEN war broke out in 1914 it was almost immediately hailed by some optimists on the Allied side as a War to End War. Whether it will ultimately prove to have been so, it is yet too early to say. The end of war for all time is not officially acknowledged in practice to-day by any Government in Europe.

One of the most conspicuous effects of the war, indeed, has been to intensify the belief in the gospel of force even outside international affairs. Revolution, which is only war between fellow-countrymen, has become one of the commonplaces of European politics. The Civil War Lord has taken the place of the older kind of War Lord; Hitler stands in the shoes of the Kaiser.

Over the greater part of Europe dictatorships, based upon force, have come into existence; and if the war did not succeed in ending war it has at least gone a considerable distance towards ending liberty. The price that Europe has paid for the destruction of Junkerdom has been the triumph of the more tyrannous Nazidom. Italy enjoys the peace of Fascism, but no longer breathes the free air of 1914.

IS EUROPE HAPPIER?

The Bolshevik revolution, which was certainly hastened by the war and probably even directly caused by it, is regarded by many people as an event that shows that the world has gained as well as lost as a result of the war. The principle of human equality, we are told, has now been established for all time. It may be so, but while the Communist theory puts the clock forward as regards equality it puts it back as regards liberty. It is still too early to foresee the consequences of this vast experiment.

There has, it must be admitted, been an increase of liberty in one direction. A number of countries—Poland, Czechoslovakia and the Irish Free State—have been added to the family of the free nations. But whether the Europe that we see in 1934 is on the whole happier and a cause for greater hope than the Europe we know in 1914 is a question difficult to answer.

I doubt if Europe is happier, but it seems to me that there are causes for hope even in the present condition of things. The principle of human equality may not yet be recognised universally, but, even outside Russia, events are moving towards the abolition of gross inequality. War has been declared on class distinctions in Berlin as well as in Moscow, and I have heard "Fascism" defended on the ground that it is no less than Bolshevism, is a movement towards social levelling.

The spread of the belief in equality, however, is not entirely a result of the war and the revolutions that followed it; it is due largely to the fact that Nature and science between them have in recent years proved to be able to provide more than enough for the needs of everybody and that the cold-blooded principle "The Devil take the hindmost" is no longer necessary if we could only solve the problem of distribution.

As for England itself, it is impossible to say whether happiness is more widespread to-day than it was before the war. There has undoubtedly been a great increase in the popularisation of pleasure. Wireless, the cinema, football, lawn tennis, dog racing—all these at least keep millions of people from being bored. There is more travel if it is only as far as to Brighton. There are more holidays, if only for the day, in the country and at the sea. Hikers have become more numerous than cyclists, and hordes of people seem to be able to afford pleasure cruises.

AND NOW TO-DAY.

If we saw England only at its pleasures and never visited a mining village or a Labour Exchange we should be led to the conclusion that England in 1934 is happier than it has ever been before. The fact remains, however, that before the war very few people would have regarded any country as happy in which more than 2,000,000 people could find no employment, even though they were preserved from starvation by the dole.

To the ordinary elderly pre-war Englishman, indeed, the England of 1934, if he could have foreseen it, would not have appeared as at all a desirable place to live in. He had considerable apprehensions about women's suffrage. He would have been horrified by the increase of divorce. He would have been shocked if he had been told that birth-control would become as ordinary a topic of discussion as Kiree Trade and that people would be talking and writing about sex as excitedly as if it were a new discovery. He would not have liked the freer-spoken manners of the young, and he would have been alarmed over the possible results of the decline of religious belief.

The fact that thousands of people are killed on the roads every year without anyone being able to discover a means of bringing their killers to book would have struck him as a mark of decadence. And, if he had foreseen the size of the Income Tax, his heart would have broken in sympathy.

On some matters his pessimism would, I think, have been justified; and no man can say for certain what will be the end of some of the modern experiments with new social faiths and new moral ideas. The world is now in an experimental mood, either because it is weary of traditional ways or because it feels that the traditional ways have failed.

In two directions at least, happily, it is experimenting, however blindly and incompetently, towards noble ends—a juster distribution of the necessities and luxuries of life and the abolition of war as a means of settling the disputes of nations.

The hatred of war—hatred based on experience—is more deep-seated and widespread to-day, I imagine, than at any other period in history. It is no longer a half-academic hatred, but a hatred as passionate as the hatred of torture or of cruelty to children. If this hatred can find practical expression in the world-politics of the next generation few people will look back enviously to the comparatively happy years before 1914.

The Very Idea!

THE BOOK OF ASUWERUS

Chapter 15.

Now the Sanhedrin met yet again, as the manner was, to consider the necessities of the people. And all the Elders, yea even to seventy and two of them, were assembled together.

2. And the Master of the Watch said, Behold! the people follow after their old gods, and put them to worship. The old customs cling hard and the people go not forward.

3. And I say unto you that this thing hindereth the people: that they progress not. For all the nations of the world hanker after strange gods, save only these our tribes.

4. And peradventure they shall worship new gods also or else they shall perish. And the Elders spake one with another and they found the speech to be good.

5. Then the Chief of the Elders said, Tell me, I pray thee, how thou wouldst wean the people to other worship, for they like not to change.

6. And he answered in turn and said Behold let us bring forth a new god, a new and costly god, let it be covered in emeralds, and amber, and rubies.

7. And let it have many eyes that none may escape its gaze. And let it be set up in the centre of the city, at the cross-roads. And cause all to stop and bow before it.

8. And it came to pass that all was done as was prophesied by the Captain of the Watch. And the new god was set up costing much gold and silver.

Chapter 16

And the people despised the new god as was foretold by Asuwerus the Scribe. They were stubborn and stiff-necked and would not bow before the new idol.

2. And the scribes wrote and preached against it saying, Give us back our old gods for they were familiar gods and knew us. But this, even tho' it has twelve eyes, knows us not.

3. And there was one of great strength yea he was a mighty hunter. And he smote the idol between the eyes. And the head of the idol was turned, so his eyes saw not. And the people laughed and said, Where is the power of this mighty god?

4. Then arose one of the judges of the land and he comforted the people saying, Be ye of good cheer; For should ye not bow down before this new god, then do ye not transgress.

5. For the law takes no account of idols. And there was great rejoicing in the land and the residue of the people called one to the other Evoel! Evoel! in the ancient manner of being joyful during the sacrifice even as when pressing the grape of the vine.

6. Now there was one of the scribes, the Scoffer, who excelled all the other scribes. And he scoffed at them and he said unto them What know ye of this god?

7. For ye be as women, yea ye know not the law, ye be as of no account. For I preach against this god with knowledge.

8. I am as a prophet crying out in the wilderness, Yea, as the chosen sought for manna so do I seek for wisdom in the Sanhedrin. As the gleaners seek for corn among the stubble, so do I seek for wisdom among the speech of the Elders. And their wisdom is even to the corn, after the gleaners have gleaned.

DUMB-BELLES LETTRES

Judge Ben Lindsay

Denver, Colo.

Dear Judge Lindsay:

I want a warrant for the arrest of the lawyer what defended me in court this mornin'. You see, I didn't have the money to pay him his fee, so he took the horse I stole.

OLD RESIDENT'S DEATH

MR. JAMES DALZIEL
PASSES AWAY

OVER 40 YEARS IN HONGKONG

It is with deep regret that we have to announce the death, which occurred in Dumfriesshire on Sunday, of Mr. James Dalziel, who was one of the oldest residents of the Colony.

His connection with Hongkong dated back to 1891, forty-three years ago, and he had a long store of reminiscences about life in the Colony in the nineties and the early part of the present century.

The news will come as a great shock to a wide circle of friends, for he left with his family for a holiday in Scotland in March in good health and had intended returning at the end of this year. The late Mr. Dalziel first saw Hongkong when he joined the staff of Messrs. Butterfield and Swire in 1891 and was for many years chief engineer on many vessels registered of the company trading up and down the China Coast.

In 1907 he left the sea and joined the staff of the Talkoo Sugar Refinery Company, later building the house known as "Seven Sisters" in the Quarry Bay District. On his retirement from the Refinery in 1924, he built a house "East Tinnal" in Dumfriesshire.

Mr. Dalziel has written many books, the best perhaps being "High Life in the Far East" and "The First Watch". He was a member of the Authors' Club. He also dabbled in economics and another of his publications was a treatise on silver and the Hongkong dollar, published at the time of the stabilisation controversy.

He was also a member of the Institution of Mechanical Engineers and the Institution of Marine Engineers.

A keen yachtsman he was a member of the R. H. K. Yacht Club and at one time owned the yacht "Lady Godiva", "Lady Jean" and "Floer". During his last stay in the Colony he owned the motor yacht, "Lady Luck".

During the Great War Mr. Dalziel was an enthusiastic volunteer and proved himself to be a crack shot.

He leaves a widow, one daughter, Miss Jean Dalziel, who for some years was Hon. Secretary of the H. K. Ladies' Hockey Club (both of whom are now at home) and a son, Gray Dalziel, who is a member of the staff of the Dairy Farm. The deepest sympathy will be felt with them in their bereavement.

AUSTRALIA'S SURPLUS MALES

Australia, according to the latest census reports, has 101,201 more males than females. The total population on March 31st, this year was 6,608,955.

All States have a surplus of males, except Victoria which has an excess of 14,793 females, says Austral News.

"An Indiscreet Science" was a fitting title to the Rev. Father G. Byrne's address at the Hongkong Rotary Club at their weekly dinner in the Roof Garden of the Hongkong Hotel yesterday. The subject was Radioactive, the study of the nature of radiations which proceed from different bodies, including the human body. Father Byrne dealt with a number of experiments which had already been carried out and a number, which he himself had done, with a metallic pendulum and photographs.

"QUITE SATISFIED"

MR. MAUGHAN AND BOWLS TEAM

"I am quite satisfied with the men that have been chosen to represent Hongkong in the Inter-port matches against Shanghai and Hankow," said Mr. E. E. Maughan, manager of the Hongkong Inter-port bowls team, on the eve of their departure for Shanghai on the President Taft.

early this morning. "I am sure that the men selected will uphold the tradition of bowls in the Colony," Mr. Maughan added. Asked by a representative of the S. C. M. Post what he thought of Hongkong's prospects in the Inter-port matches, Mr. Maughan said, "I am not prepared to say that we will win, and I am not going to say we will lose. But I can give this assurance. The players selected will do their best, every one of them."

The Hongkong team consists of R. Bana, H. Beer, A. E. Coates, E. G. Post, J. Watson and U. M. Omar. The team was accompanied by a number of local supporters who are taking this opportunity of seeing the Inter-port matches and spending a short holiday in the north.

The Consul General for the Netherlands regrets his inability to give a reception on the anniversary of the Birthday of Her Majesty Wilhelmina, Queen of the Netherlands, on Friday, August 31, owing to the mourning of the Royal Family in connection with the death of Her Majesty the Queen Mother and His Royal Highness the Prince Consort. A register of congratulation will be lying at the Netherlands Consulate General, Asiatic Building, for friends to sign on the said date between 9.30 a.m. and noon. The Consulate General will be closed for the transaction of official business.

ENGLISH FOOTBALL CLUBS REPORT ON PROSPECTS

MAJORITY EXPECT TO SHOW IMPROVEMENT

Chelsea Refuse To Heed A Warning

Nearly all of the clubs competing in first class football in England have reported improvements for the current season which has just started. Below will be found prospects of some of the leading clubs, including those of the Arsenal.

It is evident that Arsenal do not intend to surrender easily the title of League champions. During the summer months, they have added to their staff three players, Crayston, Copping and Dr. Marshall, at a cost of approximately £20,000, with the intention of emulating the performance of Huddersfield Town by winning the League three times running.

Last season there was much shaking of heads over the wing half-back positions and the retirement of David Jack. Now there can be no misgivings, for Crayston and Copping are two of the finest half-backs in football to-day, while Marshall has been secured to fill the vacancy left by Jack.

In this instance it is not certain that Marshall will fill the bill. He will require time to settle down in English football and he may not have the pace necessary to fit in with the quick-moving Highbury attack. Yet Arsenal need have no cause for concern, for there is Bowden to fall back upon. It is certain that Bowden, when he has learned to part with the ball accurately, will make the inside-right position his own.

MANY CENTRE FORWARDS.

It is difficult to visualise any team surging Arsenal from their place at the top of the table. The champions start off with practically the same side, the same highly-developed teamwork and under a manager who will pay great attention to their physical comforts. G. F. Allison is not expected to repeat the mistakes made last year when the League title was nearly thrown away by a lack of foresight.

Incidentally, we wonder what the Arsenal will do with their overabundance of centre-forwards. At present they have Drake, Dunne, Coleman, Cox, the Sussex cricketer, and Carr from North-East. Which of them will shake the dust of Highbury from his feet when the season is well under way?

CHELSEA HOPES

WARNING REMAINS UNHEEDED

Last season Chelsea escaped relegation by the narrow margin of two points. Yet the management has not taken heed of the warning. The club will begin the coming campaign with practically the same team and the same reserve talent.

Indeed, the only newcomers are Smith, a big, strong inside forward from Birmingham, and Deacon, a little outside-left from West Ham. It seems that Chelsea are content to let matters stand and hope for the best.

No doubt the argument is that the players who took the team to safety

NOTTS COUNTY

Idea Manager Jones Has Introduced

Notts County have decided upon a new policy both with regard to training and management.

They have placed Charlie Jones, of the Arsenal, in charge, and his first move was to improve the dressing-room accommodation for, as he said: "Here is where the work has to be done."

That completed he is introducing football, tennis, and an indoor ball-practice room, and another feature will be an instructional school.

"I intend to carry on training on coaching lines more than it has ever been practised before," he said in an interview, "and I have brought with me for this purpose Seddon, an ex-Arsenal player, who will be trainer."

So far only three new players have joined the staff, Poskett, a goalkeeper, from Lincoln, McGrath, an outside-right, from Port Vale, and Rankin, an inside-right, from Chelsea. It is the intention to play what is known as the third-back formation, and Manager Jones feels that he will succeed in at least improving the quality of football.

Several ground improvements have been effected during the close season, including the re-roofing of one of the stands, the fitting of slip-up chairs in place of forms in the centre stand, and the erection of a new board room.

In the second half of last season are quite good enough for the task in hand. Admittedly they accomplished a wonderful performance, seeing that Chelsea had only eight points at Christmas, but the players are a year older and will reveal the same weaknesses. Chelsea will have trouble on the wings and a tendency to be ultra-clever in attack rather than effective.

LUCK MAY CHANGE.

It is understood that Chelsea cannot afford to buy new players. Yet it would be cheaper to the club in the long run if they speculated now before the trouble arrives. For as if Chelsea start promisingly and have two or three good home games they will strengthen their playing resources.

Chelsea's main hopes rest in immunity from injuries and the infusion of teamwork and the will-to-win spirit. Last year Chelsea were sadly handicapped by the loss of Law and Priestley (who has not yet re-signed) at critical stages. It is to be hoped that their luck will change in this respect, and also that they will play throughout the season with the same dash and determination as in those hectic closing months.

WEST BROMWICH

Albions Tried And Trusted Brigade

West Bromwich Albion have signed on a few new players, but it is unlikely that any of them will displace the old and tried men who constituted the side last season.

The club have a new back in J. Screen, of Smethwick Highfield; a new half in E. Humpley, of Easington Colliery; and three fresh forwards in G. Spencer, of Nantwich; J. Singleton, of Clacton Moor; and C. Grosvenor, of Vono Sports (a local club).

The last named is brother to Tom Grosvenor, Birmingham's international, and is well spoken of. Spencer gave a very stimulating show when he played in a charity match at the back-end of last season for a picked Cheshire side against the Albion Reserves.

Half a dozen old players have been allowed to go elsewhere. P. H. Griffiths has gone to Cardiff, J. H. Turner to Boscombe, T. Magee and G. Handley to Crystal Palace, A. Tittle to Port Vale, and S. Horrocks to Swindon. The registered players are:

Goal: H. F. Pearson, E. Crowe, J. Adams.

Backs: G. E. Shaw, H. F. Trentham, A. R. Finch, H. E. Foulkes, J. Swinley, J. Screen (Smethwick Highfield).

Half-backs: W. Richardson, J. Edwards, J. Murphy, B. Trevis, J. Rix, J. Sankey, G. Thompson, J. A. Riddard, J. Kilton, E. Humpley (Easington Colliery).

Forwards: T. W. Glidden, J. H. Carter, W. G. Richardson, E. Sandford, S. Wood, H. Raw, W. Boyes, T. Gale, W. W. Robbins, T. Green, L. Coen, M. Wilson, H. J. Jones, J. A. Hickman, J. Singleton (Clacton Moor), C. Grosvenor (Vono Sports), G. Spencer (Nantwich).

THIS TIME READING

Will Promotion Evade Them This Term?

For the past few seasons Reading have had promotion almost within their grasp and have missed it by one, two or three points only. Last term injuries played a big part in the club failing to gain promotion.

Nineteen of last season's players have been retained and newcomers include well experienced players in J. L. McGann, who for several seasons has been on the books of Stockport County; W. Robson, a back from West Ham; and Hugh McMahon, an inside-forward from Southend.

Other players signed include two local amateurs in G. M. Darvill, a back from Wycombe Wanderers, and H. E. Dollery, the Warwickshire cricketer, an inside-forward, who had a season last year with West Bromwich Colts, and on a month's trial are Fitzgerald, left-half from Donkey (Midland League), Clark of Dawdon Colliery, inside-left; Lawson, Spenny-moor United, centre-forward; and Palmer, an ex-Armey left-half, who has played for Dundee.

Last season's players who have fixed up with other clubs are Richardson (Boscombe), Hargrove (Bristol City), Foster (Clapton Orient) and Riddley (Queen's Park Rangers).

Goalkeepers: Whittaker, McGann (Stockport).

Backs: Rowe, Morris, Boyle, Darvill (Wycombe Wanderers), Robson (West Ham).

Half-backs: Johnson, Hayhurst, Wright, Townsend, Telling, Dutton (Darwen).

Forwards: Gregory, Liddle, Butler, McGough, Samuel, Newton, Chandler, Osberry, Barley, Fielding, McMahon (Southend), Dollery (West Bromwich Colts).

NEWPORT COUNTY

BEST SIDE FOR SEVERAL SEASONS

Manager Jimmy Hindmarsh says the Newport side on paper is the strongest the club have had for several seasons.

Much attention has been given to the half-back line, an evident weakness in many matches last season. This line will be the stander for the inclusion of Fred McKennie, who returns to his former club after six seasons with Plymouth Argyle.

Another noteworthy addition to the half-back line is G. W. Odell, transferred from Northampton to Wigan Borough at a big fee. He is regarded by those in the know as Newport's "star" capture. Then John Howard Davies, of Morthyr, right-half, comes to the club with a big reputation. The only half-back retained is Whitehouse, a local lad.

From Plymouth Argyle comes Anthony Bird, who, with Litherland, a former Everton player, will share the leadership of the attack.

Great things are expected in defence from Eric James Cook, who played for Tottenham Hotspur last season. A full-back, he is equally at home on either flank.

TOTTENHAM MAKE A POOR START

NOT YET SHAPING LIKE A CHAMPION TEAM

VARIABLE FORM FEATURES OPENING MATCHES

The first few days of the Homeside football season have, as usual, supplied a number of surprising results. It is still far too early to form definite opinions, but there has been a lot of significant material in the results of the matches to date.

Tottenham Hotspur have been very slow off the mark, and one point from two home matches certainly does not invite confidence in the idea that they will figure prominently in the championship struggle.

On the other hand the flying start made by Preston North End is one of the big features. Already Preston have shown they are going to be one of the most difficult teams in the country to beat.

The Arsenal have started quietly. To capture a point at Fratton Park was quite a good performance, and they were only denied the whole of the reward by an equalling goal in the last minute.

The mid week games revealed a variance in form, which is to be expected at this time of the season, and it is far wiser to refrain from coming to conclusions from this first series of matches.

This Saturday's programme indicates wholesale victories for home teams. The Arsenal are before their own supporters, as are Chelsea, but Spurs visit Huddersfield and cannot hold out much hope of winning. With so very little form as a guide, one must give the fullest value to the advantage of home ground in making any forecast.

Yesterday's Upsets In The Leagues

TEAMS BEATEN AT HOME

London, Aug. 28.

Three matches in the English Football League were played to-day.

Grimby performed quite well at home to hold Sunderland to a goalless draw.

In the Northern section of the Third Division, Rochdale sustained an unexpected reverse before their own supporters, losing to Barrow by the only goal scored.

Southport too found their own pastures of no advantage against Doncaster, and were defeated by the odd goal in three.—Reuter.

DERBY COUNTY

Acquisition of New Player

It may well prove that Derby County's astute move was the acquisition on a free transfer of Udall, from Leicester City, a player with some experience at both right full-back and outside-right. He is three in a position to deputise for two internationals in Cooper and Crooks. Fees have been paid only for Bell, a half-back from Newcastle, and Bird, an outside-left from Torquay. In their cases, also, they may be regarded as reserves to international players, with Bird facing a wonderful opportunity, for Derby will have to start the season without Duncan, Scotland's outside-left, who is recuperating after an operation for appendicitis.

A FORWARD PROBLEM.

If the management agreed with supporters that last season there was an inside-forward problem, that problem still remains, and even competition will exist between Groves and Wileman—one experienced yet lacking weight to withstand buffeting and the other dashing and plucky without a great deal of guile.

Of those who will not again appear in the first team, Scott, a half-back, has gone to Brentford; Hutchinson an inside-forward, to Hull; Alderman to Burnley.

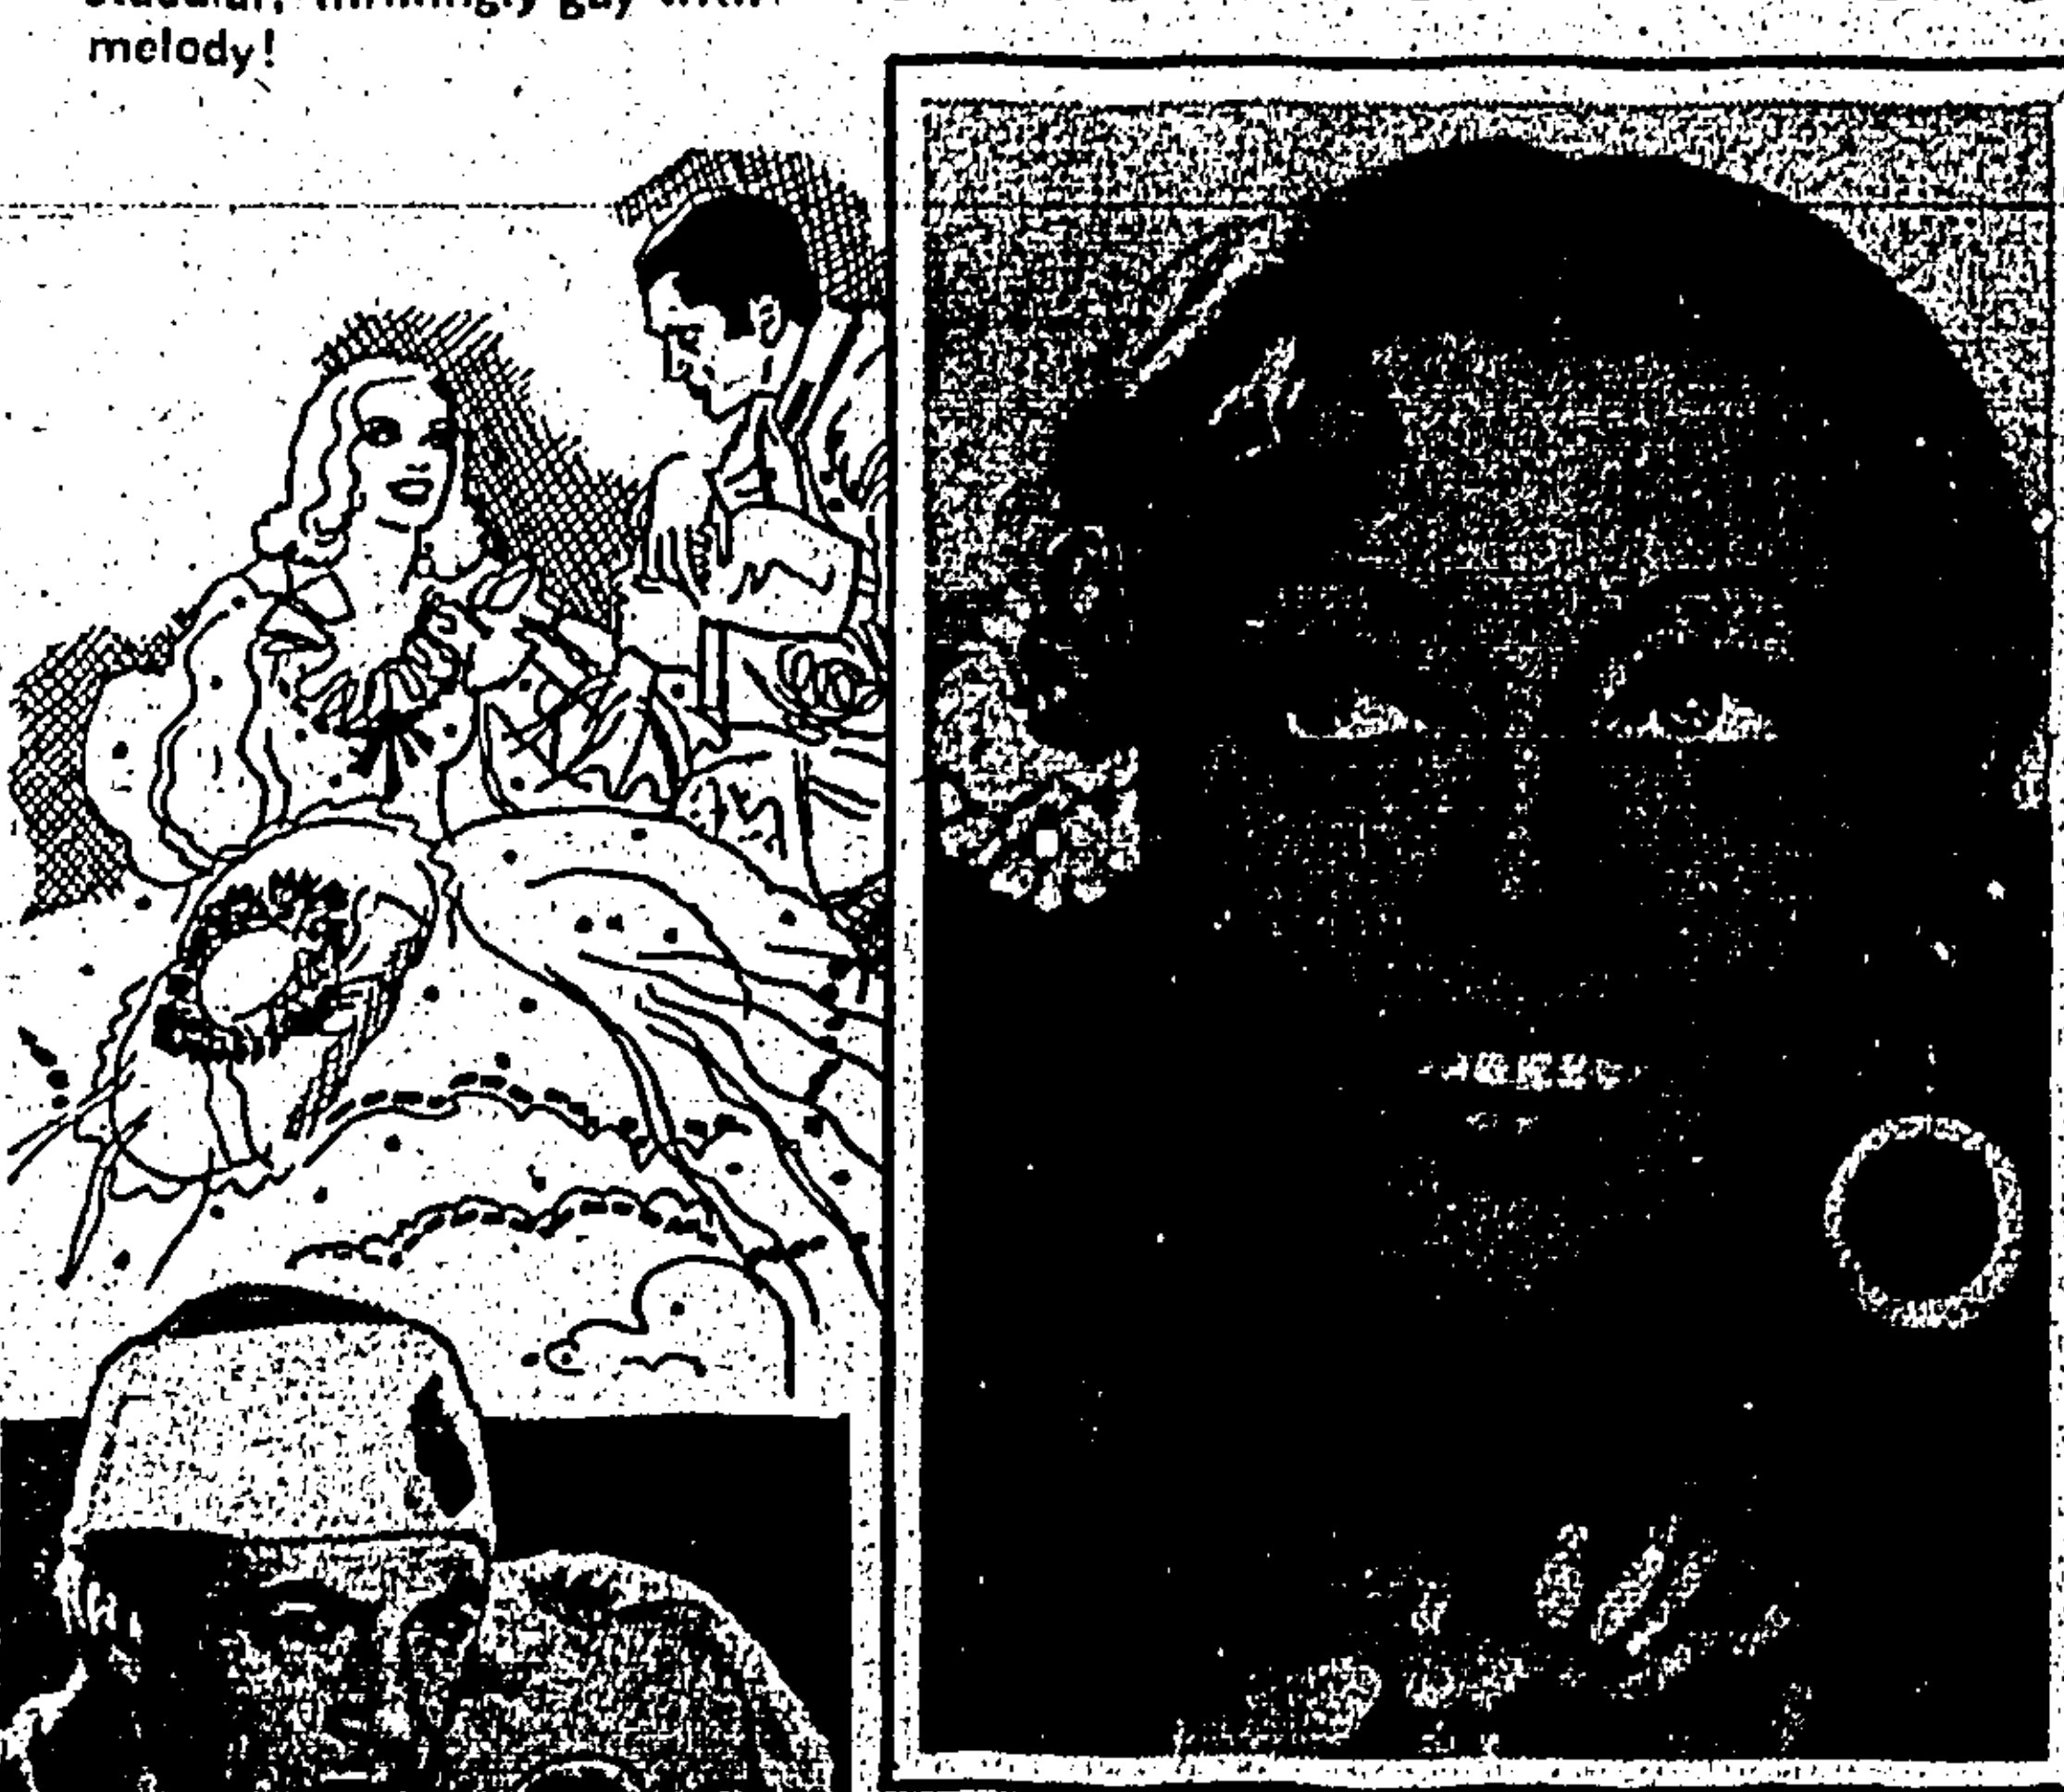

Goalkeepers: Blore, Kirby, Pearson (Shirebrook), Webster (Easington Welfare).

Backs: Carr, Cooper, Collin, Reid, Webb, Udall (Leicester City).

Half-backs: Barker, Haque, Hann, Hannah, Jessop, Kern, Nicholson, Robinson, Lowe, Wright (Easington Welfare), Bell (Newcastle United).

Forwards: Bowers, Bowden, Crooks, Dobbs, Duncan, Groves, Halford, Phillips, Ramsay, Randall, Roberts, Rafferty, Wileman, Bird (Torquay United), Nicholson (Easington Welfare).

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Out of the pages of history has come another great motion picture theme to thrill theatre audiences with one of the finest romances ever upon the screen in recent years. This time it is "Operator 13", the exciting Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer-Cosmopolitan presents as Marion Davies' newest starring vehicle and which opens today at the Queen's Theatre. It is not, in a sense, a war story. It is a gripping love story for which the Civil War serves only as a background. It is the story of an all-powerful love affair involving a beautiful woman spy of the Union army and a gallant spy of the Confederate forces. At Gail Lovelace, the federal spy who is sent into the Southern lines to destroy the most dangerous spy of the Confederacy, Miss Davies contributes her finest dramatic performance of her eventful screen career. Gary Cooper, the Southern spy, equally surpasses all his former screen roles as the unseen things which might lurk in its inky blackness, a man who can outline into the air, such as "Jack Griffin", the mad super-scientist of the H. G. Wells tale, possesses more than human power. It is this power and its graphic effect on the other characters of the screen play which provides "The Invisible Man" with its stunning strangeness. Not in many months has a film caused such a startling sensation as this speculative screen treatise on invisibility, a subject, by the way, which has intrigued man for countless ages.

"The Invisible Man" is the most effective of all the creatures created by Hollywood for spine-tingling purposes is showing to-day at the King's Theatre, by special request for one day only. But "The Invisible Man" tops them by performing his sinister deeds under the cloak of invisibility. Just as the dark is fear-compelling because of the unseen things which might lurk in its inky blackness, a man who can outline into the air, such as "Jack Griffin", the mad super-scientist of the H. G. Wells tale, possesses more than human power. It is this power and its graphic effect on the other characters of the screen play which provides "The Invisible Man" with its stunning strangeness. Not in many months has a film caused such a startling sensation as this speculative screen treatise on invisibility, a subject, by the way, which has intrigued man for countless ages.

"The Only Girl" Lillian Harvey, the gay, winsome and provocative English star, is stated to have an ideal role in "The Only Girl", colourful musical romance which is to have its premiere at the Alhambra Theatre to-morrow. Playing opposite her in this film is one of the leading French actors, Charles Boyer, who played leads in the French versions of "The Big House" and "The Trial of Mary Dugan". "The Only Girl" is a British Gaumont-Ufa production.

HIGH PRAISE FROM A BRITISH ARCHITECT

"I am very pleased to be able to inform you that your damp proof wall paint has stood the damp season very well, although applied to a portion of walling, the exterior face of which is very exposed to driving rain.

Interior paint or colourwash on this portion of walling has always become very damp and fallen off in the rainy season. Your paint has, however, so far remained through the present rainy season without showing any signs of damp or falling off."

The Lifebuoy Of Health.

Baby's Own Tablets are the little children's lifebuoy of health for they keep them safe through those early years when their health is being constantly menaced by the many ailments to which children are subject. Baby's Own Tablets are mildly laxative, they neither gripe nor purge, they are readily absorbed and are therefore easily administered, and because of their pleasant taste children like them so there is no fuss or bother about taking them.

To keep your little one fit, the main essential is to keep his stomach and bowels clean and in good order, then he will derive the greatest nourishment from the food he eats and by building up his body his power of resistance to illness will be increased. Baby's Own Tablets are the ideal stomach and bowel cleanser for little children, for they are guaranteed absolutely free from any substance which would be in any way injurious to the delicate organs. Keep a vial to Baby's Own Tablets always in the home for the immediate correction of minor stomach troubles and the health of your children will then be assured. At any chemist you can obtain this splendid health corrective.

production, directed by Eric Pommer, and has been staged on the opulent and grandiose lines that have characterized similar pictures made by this organization, "Congress Dances" and "Her Highness Commands" for example. Among notable settings are some charming reproductions of the court of the Empress Eugenie, around whom the story is largely woven. The music for the film was composed by Franz Waxmann and is based on contemporary motifs, Lillian Harvey sings a haunting Waltz-song, "How Can I Live Without You", which all Europe is humming. "The Only Girl" promises to be stimulating entertainment for fabled tastes seeking something new and different.

"No More Women" Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen are at it again, forty fathoms under the sea, in the Paramount picture, "No More Women", coming on Thursday to the King's Theatre. Hard guys, sore-heads when their fight is private, they are pals to the death against outsiders. This time, they are cast as two deep-sea divers. The film is a Charles R. Rogers production.

FORGED GUILDERS

CLEVER POLICE RUSE TO TRAP GANG

A police ruse for the capture of persons suspected of trafficking in counterfeit guilders was described at the Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon, when charges of possession and uttering were preferred against Cheng Kam-tong, Ip Fook, Hui Muk-kam, and a woman, Yuen Kwai-sang, who was said to be the wife of Ip Fook.

The prosecuting Police Officer, Detective Inspector John Murphy, said that eight days ago, two Chinese detectives went to the Luk Hoi Tung Hotel, on Connaught Road Central, where they occupied adjacent rooms.

Posing as a third comrade on the s.s. Tjikembang, one of the detectives received Cheng Kam-tong and Ip Fook when they called that same evening, and negotiations were opened for the purchase of counterfeit Dutch guilders, on the basis of Hongkong $100 for every 70 guilders.

"This is considerably below exchange," Inspector Murphy commented.

The following morning, the same two men, accompanied by the woman Yuen Kwai-sang, came with the guilders, of which a considerable quantity was carried by Cheng strapped to his legs and the remainder by the woman in a cloth parcel.

A jingle of coins on the table was the signal for the other detective to appear from the other room, and all three suspects were then taken into custody.

Subsequently, Detective-Sergeant Shepherd carried out a raid on a floor at Battery Street, Yaumatei, where all three had been living together with a third man, Hui Muk-kam, who was arrested as the Police party were on their way to Yaumatei.

After hearing the evidence, the Magistrate, Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen, found the evidence insufficient against Ip Fook, Hui Muk-kam and Yuen Kwai-sang. All three were discharged with a warning.

The case against Cheng Kam-tong was found to have been proved, and upon being informed that the defendant was almost blind, His Worship gave him the option of a fine of $55, or in default, three months' hard labour. Defendant was convicted of possession of the counterfeit coins.

PLOT TRACED?

SCHUSCHNIGG SEEKS POWERS' ADVICE

Vienna, Aug. 28.

It is officially learned that Chancellor Schuschnigg has collected from Nazi prisoners, taken during the July 25 revolt in which the late Chancellor Dollfuss was assassinated, documentary evidence that the putsch was organised by Herr Habicht and Frau Enlaid in Munich.

Habicht, it will be recalled, was subsequently discharged from his post in Munich where he had been in charge of Nazi radio propaganda in Austria.

It is further learned that Chancellor Schuschnigg will probably submit his evidence to the Foreign Ministries of Britain, France and Italy. They will decide whether the evidence should or should not be submitted to the League of Nations, it is believed.

It is possible that the matter may be handled subsequently by private negotiations.

Chancellor Schuschnigg will probably ask the League of Nations for another international loan on the grounds that suppression of the Nazi putsch was extremely costly and wiped out the hard-won budget improvements which the Dollfuss administration had achieved.—United Press.

MAN OF MERCY.

Hitler's Campaign To Win Dissenters.

Berlin, Aug. 28.

Firmly seated in his place of power, Herr Hitler is now about to commence an energetic campaign for the winning over of all dissenters to the Nazi policy of the Reich.

Der Fuehrer is expected to make two important announcements at the Nazi Party Congress, which is commencing at Nuremberg on September 4.

In the first, Hitler will give details of his plan to win over all elements responsible for the vote of over 4,000,000 polled against him in the formal plebiscite of August 20.

It is expected that the plan will be of a conciliatory nature, and is almost certain to bear on

NAVAL POLICY

FRANCE TO BUILD BIGGER SHIPS

Paris, Aug. 28.

"I am determined to be a partisan of big fleet units," declared M. Pictet, Minister of Marine, when interviewed as to French naval policies to-day.

"The foremost item on my programme is the building of a sister ship to the battleship Dunkerque. The latter will be finished in 1937 and her sister ship in 1938.

"I have ordered the complete transformation of three battleships of the Provence class, the first of which will be ready in a few months," he declared.

M. Pictet also said he had introduced a four-year plan for the improvement of the naval air service and for the construction of a number of submarine petrol depots, one of which has already been completed at Ajaccio. He also plans to supply new model land batteries to the Algerian and Morocco coasts.—Reuter.

SOVIET CHARGE

C.E.R. EMPLOYEES PUT TO TORTURE?

Moscow, Aug. 28.

Fifty-four Soviet employees of the Chinese Eastern Railway have been arrested since August 18, according to the Tass News Agency.

Relatives of the arrested men have been kept in a state of anxiety by stories of inhuman tortures at the police stations, and it is alleged that several relatives have received parcels of blood-stained clothing from the prisoners.

Tass further states that the prisoners are coerced into confessing that they acted under orders to organise raids on trains and stations.—Reuter.

The Catholic problem, since quite half of the opposition to Hitler's assumption of the Presidency came from that section.

It is believed that Hitler's second plan will be to announce an amnesty on an even larger scale than that announced before the Plebiscite.—Reuter Special.

FOUR BRITONS ARRESTED

IN PARTY OF NINE FOREIGNERS

BERLIN KEEPS THE SECRET

London, Aug. 29. — International interest is again focussed upon Germany, following news of the arrest of nine foreigners, including four Englishmen, because, apparently of German objections to their political outlook.

The arrests were kept secret by the German authorities. They actually took place on Saturday, four days ago, but the information has only just come to light.

The party of nine were all arrested at the same time and place, and included four British, two Frenchmen and three Spaniards.

It appears that they were arrested at Wanssee, near Berlin, taken to Berlin itself, interrogated by the secret police and kept under detention.

According to reports, they arrived in Berlin after attending an anti-war anti-Fascist Congress in Madrid and were proposing to visit German labour camps. They were bathing at Wanssee when the police took them into custody. — Reuter.

DUESTERBERG A JUNE 30 VICTIM

JAILED: NOW A LIVING CORPSE

Paris, Aug. 29. — Colonel Duesterberg, the well-known leader of the Steel Helmet organization, who was much in the public eye two years ago when he stood as a candidate for the presidency in opposition to the late Pres. Paul von Hindenburg, appears to have been one of the victims of the Hitler clean-up of June 30.

The fact was discovered by the Berlin correspondent of the "Frankfurter Zeitung". It appears that Colonel Duesterberg served about a month's imprisonment but has now been liberated.

He told the correspondent: "I was not one of those shot, but I am now a living corpse." — Reuter.

GERMANY TO HONGKONG IN SIX DAYS

LUFTHANSA PLANE'S ATTEMPT

DUE ON MONDAY

A German flying boat left Dessau yesterday on a record-breaking trip to Hongkong.

The machine, a Junker Ju 52, is scheduled to cover the 9,000 odd miles from Dessau in Germany to Hongkong by Monday, and if this performance is carried out it will rank as a high standard of efficient organisation.

The Asiatic Petroleum Company have been notified of the departure and will handle the re-fueling arrangements in Hongkong. It is possible that the machine may also fly to Canton before going on to Shanghai.

It is not known what are the exact objects of the flight but it is probably a trial survey of conditions out here, or else a mere delivery order for the Eurasia Corporation of Shanghai who are known to have ordered similar machines.

The plane belongs to the Deutsche Lufthansa Company, the biggest air mail and transport company in Germany but it is not known here yet whether it is of the three engine variety or the single engine. If the latter, the flight would be a remarkable performance.

WHY THE YANKEE FAILED

ANOTHER TRIAL RACE ARRANGED

Newport, R. I. Aug. 28. — American yachting experts are still in a quandary about the selection of the defender of the America's Cup.

The third race of the final series of the Cup trials gave no assistance whatsoever, for while Rainbow won by default, the Yankee, when the race suddenly and surprisingly terminated at the half way stage, seemed the speedier craft.

When she appeared to be overhauling Rainbow, the Yankee suddenly dropped her canvas and abandoned the race.

Rainbow was leading by the narrow margin of fifteen seconds at the end of fifteen miles of the thirty-miles course, and the Yankee was then rapidly decreasing the lead that Rainbow had established early in the contest.

The reason for Yankee's abandonment is not yet known. — Reuter.

BROKEN STRUT.

It is disclosed that the reason for Yankee's abandonment of the race was the breaking of a jumper strut. Another race will be necessary before the defender of the America's Cup is chosen. — Reuter.

VIENNA SENSATION

POLICE RAID ON HEIMWEHR

ANTICIPATING TROUBLE

(Special to "Telegraph")

Vienna, Aug. 28. — Vienna's cafes were buzzing with excitement this evening following a raid by the police upon the local barracks of the Heimwehr.

Hand to hand fighting occurred during the raid, but the police finally got the upper-hand and it is understood, took over a score of members of the Heimwehr into custody.

The astonishing feature of the affair is the fact that the Heimwehr represent the semi-military organisation over which Prince von Starhemberg, the Vice-Chancellor has control.

The raid was carried out by fifty picked men of the Riot Squad and they descended upon the Vienna barracks of the Heimwehr with lightning swiftness, making over twenty arrests after a "rough-house."

POLICE RETICENT.

The police are reticent about the raid and the object, but reliable quarters assert that the reason is to be found in the increased animosity of recent days between the Socialist Schutzbund, each having accused the other of over-friendliness with the National Socialists (the Nazis).

The trouble, it is suggested, was threatening to develop seriously and the police therefore decided to act impartially and to clean up both groups. — United Press.

The whole town of Campana is still menaced; already there is one section of the town which has been completely burned out, with scarcely a house over a wide area undamaged. The damage already exceeds £750,000. — Reuter.

HOLIDAY ROMANCE IN SLOVENIAN ALPS

PRINCESS MARINA OF GREECE TO WED KING'S YOUNGEST SON

"GLAD CONSENT" OF HIS MAJESTY

NO PLANS YET MADE FOR THE WEDDING

London, Aug. 28. — A Court Circular issued to-night announces that H.R.H. Prince George, the youngest son of Their Majesties the King and Queen, has been betrothed to Princess Marina, the third daughter of Prince Nicholas of Greece.

The announcement came as a complete surprise to the public, for while rumours of the imminence of the Prince's betrothal to Princess Marina spread when the Prince recently went on a vacation to the Continent, they were promptly denied.

Princess Marina is the youngest of Prince Nicholas's three beautiful daughters. She is tall and fair, wearing her hair bobbed, and has classical Greek features.

Princess Marina was born on November 30, 1906, and is therefore nearing her twenty-eighth birthday. Prince George is four years older. He was born on December 20, 1902.

The official announcement, which was made from Balmoral Castle, where the King and Queen are staying, says:

"It is with the greatest pleasure that the King and Queen announce the betrothal of their dearly beloved son, Prince George, to Princess Marina, the daughter of Prince and Princess Nicholas of Greece, to which union the King has gladly given his consent."

HOLIDAY ROMANCE.

It is understood that Prince George's engagement which has come as a great surprise, was the culmination of a holiday romance. Subsequent to his strenuous tour in South Africa, the Prince has been enjoying a vacation on the Continent, during which he spent a holiday in Yugoslavia as the guest of Prince and Princess Paul of Yugoslavia.

Princess Marina is a sister of Prince Paul and Prince George then resumed an old acquaintance when he found Princess Marina staying with Princess Paul.

The public attitude is epitomised by The Times which says: "By character, personality and training, the Prince has amply earned the congratulations and good wishes of millions of his father's subjects, while Princess Marina is already known here for her grace and charm. It is an easy prophecy that she will quickly win the hearts of all British people."

The Princess Marina speaks English as fluently as a native-born. — Reuter.

INDIA'S FUTURE CONSTITUTION

VICEROY'S SPEECH AT SIMLA

SPEEDY ACTION PROMISED

Simla, Aug. 29.

"The curtain has fallen, I hope finally, on civil disobedience, due to the sturdy good sense of the mass of the people," said Lord Willingdon, the Viceroy, in an important speech in the Legislature this morning.

Lord Willingdon has just returned to India from a flying trip to England, where he went for long consultations on the future Constitution for India.

He declined to-day to anticipate the recommendations of the Select Committee, but he promised the Legislature that the new Constitution would be applied most expeditiously when Parliament had enacted it.

AIR DEVELOPMENT.

The Viceroy foreshadowed a complete system of broadcasting for the whole of India, and also important developments in the sphere of civil aviation.

He also hinted at the probability of India's appointment of Trade Commissioner in foreign countries. He alluded to the satisfactory basis of the Indo-Japanese agreement.

CHINA REFUGEES.

Lord Willingdon further said that efforts are being made to establish a frontier agreement with China. Embarrassment had been caused to India by the influx of destitute refugees from Russia and from Chinese-Turkistan, while the expulsion of these people across the intransigent mountains of Central Asia was repugnant to humanitarian principles. Their influx was, however, dangerous and steps are now being taken to check it and to dispose of the refugees already in the country. — Reuter.

SINCLAIR LEADS

THE CALIFORNIA PRIMARIES

FINAL RESULT NOT ASSESSIBLE

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1911. Received August 29, 1.15 a.m.)

San Francisco, Aug. 28. — All the United States is awaiting news of the California primary elections with the keenest interest.

Attention is entirely focussed upon the contest for the Governorship between Mr. Upton Sinclair, the famous Socialist author, Mr. Clegg, the Roosevelt-sponsored candidate, and Mr. Wardell.

No idea of the result can fairly be obtained from the returns so far announced, but at the moment, 8 p.m. Pacific Coast time, Upton Sinclair is well ahead of the field having secured more than double the votes of the other two put together.

The returns are from scattered districts in California and cover only one hundred precincts out of a total of 10,703. It is impossible to assess how far they are indicative of the general trend in the State.

The figures from these precincts show that Sinclair has 5,427 votes, Clegg 2,616, and Wardell 1,156. — Reuter.

It's the better, quicker way to cleaner, whiter teeth. Try it.

OLD RESIDENT'S DEATH

MR. JAMES DALZIEL
PASSES AWAY

OVER 40 YEARS IN HONGKONG

It is with deep regret that we have to announce the death, which occurred in Dumfriesshire on Sunday, of Mr. James Dalziel, who was one of the oldest residents of the Colony.

His connection with Hongkong dated back to 1891, forty-three years ago, and he had a long store of reminiscences about life in the Colony in the nineties and the early part of the present century.

The news will come as a great shock to a wide circle of friends, for he left with his family for a holiday in Scotland in March in good health and had intended returning at the end of this year. The late Mr. Dalziel first saw Hongkong when he joined the staff of Messrs. Butterfield and Swire in 1891 and was for many years chief engineer on many vessels registered of the company trading up and down the China Coast.

In 1907 he left the sea and joined the staff of the Taitoko Sugar Refinery Company, later building the house known as "Seven Sisters" in the Quarry Bay District. On his retirement from the Refinery in 1924, he built a house "East Tiawai" in Dumfriesshire.

Mr. Dalziel has written many books, the best perhaps being "High Life in the Far East" and "The First Watch". He was a member of the Authors' Club. He also dabbled in economics and another of his publications was a treatise on silver and the Hongkong dollar, published at the time of the stabilisation controversy.

He was also a member of the Institution of Mechanical Engineers and the Institution of Marine Engineers.

A keen yachtsman he was a member of the R. H. K. Yacht Club and at one time owned the yachts "Lady Godiva", "Lady Jean" and "Plover". During his last stay in the Colony he owned the motor yacht, "Lady Luck."

During the Great War Mr. Dalziel was an enthusiastic volunteer and proved himself to be a crack shot.

He leaves a widow, one daughter, Miss Jean Dalziel, who for some years was Hon. Secretary of the H. K. Ladies' Hockey Club (both of whom are now at home) and a son, Gray Dalziel, who is a member of the staff of the Dairy Farm. The deepest sympathy will be felt with them in their bereavement.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

MARKET DULL AND IRREGULAR

The following reports on the New York stock market have been received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson & Fritz: The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market: Stocks were very dull and narrowly irregular, with everybody in abeyance until after Labour Day. Silver and Gold issues gained strength near the close of the market. Steels advanced, due to hopes of a pick-up in mill activities after Labour Day. The bond market was irregular and featured by the strength of United States Government issues on rumors that the U.S. Treasury will pay $25,000,000 bonds maturing on September 16th with cash. Sentiment on the Curb Exchange was mixed. The wheat market was downward due to liquidation owing to discouragement, as the market failed to attract support.

S. C. & F. New York office cable: The stock market was slightly lower. There was no interest and no news of any importance. The Steel Institute reports that operations are off 2 points, at 10.1% of capacity. The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Rly.

BRITAIN'S HAPPY FINANCES

LARGE INCREASE IN INCOME TAX RECEIPTS INDICATED

London, Aug. 28. Exchequer returns issued today show that the total ordinary revenue collected last week amounted to £10,411,267 and the ordinary expenditure incurred was £6,545,950.

As compared with last year, receipts into the Treasury are being well maintained. Inland revenue for the current financial year up to August 25th amounted to £92,628,000. At the corresponding date of last year the total was £89,728,000. Income tax receipts represent a large item in this figure and amount to £44,208,000. This is an increase of £6,580,000 on last year's figure. Receipts from estate duties to date at £35,040,000 are, however, over £3,000,000 lower than at the corresponding date last year. Customs and Excise receipts which during the current financial year have so far yielded £115,969,000 are over two million pounds more than at the corresponding date of 1933. Excluding self-balancing revenue, the total ordinary revenue from all sources for the period April 1 to August 25 of the current year amounts to £228,416,413 as compared with a figure of £232,205,529 received into the Exchequer in the corresponding period of 1933. The total ordinary expenditure to date is £271,093,284. The comparative figure last year was £268,976,168.—British Wireless.

DIVORCE POINT

AN IMPORTANT RULING

It was laid down by Mr. Justice Langton in a reserved judgment in the London Divorce Court that a statement filed by a husband petitioner in asking the exercise of the discretion of the Court in his favour in respect of his own adultery may not, where his suit is dismissed, afterwards be used by his wife as the chief ground of her petition for divorce against him.

In the case before Mr. Justice Langton, Mrs. Margaret Beatrix Bevis, living in a caravan at Woburn Sands, Bucks, asked for divorce from her husband, Mr. Leslie Cubitt Bevis, an art master, whose suit for divorce was dismissed by the President, Sir Boyd Merriam, on December 12 last. In that petition Mr. Bevis filed a statement under the direction of the Court admitting his own adultery.

Mrs. Bevis's suit was not defended. Mrs. Bevis asked for the exercise of the discretion of the Court in her own favour in respect of her admitted adultery with one of the masters at the school where her husband was art master, and her case was that her husband "purposely threw them together."

Mr. Justice Langton said it would be against the course of natural justice that a statement of admissions made by a husband by the direction of the Court should afterwards be used as the basis of the wife's petition, and it would further open the door to another form of collusion.

He would not actually dismiss the present petition of the wife, but adjourn it to next term to see whether it should then be dismissed, or whether they could go further with it, or it might be desired to appeal from his decision.

It was against his Lordship's idea of natural justice that, because a man was obliged in the pursuit of one object in Court to make certain admissions, those admissions should be considered to be admission to all the world to be used to his detriment in other proceedings.

Admissions were admissions for the proceedings in which they were required. If they could be used elsewhere it would open the door to people who were minded to put a false case before the Court—and he had to admit there were such people—and enable them to use admissions of this kind quite unscrupulously.

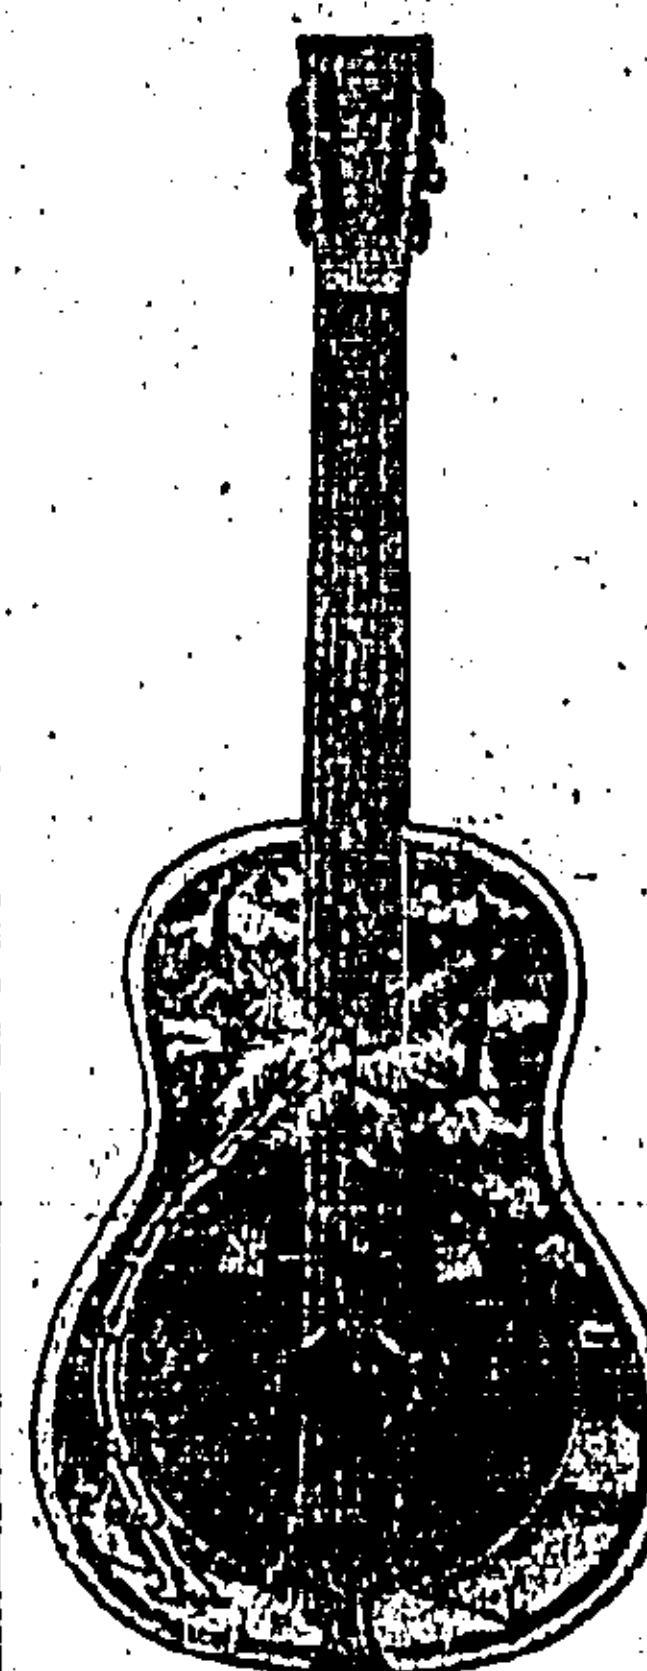

The result was unfortunate for the wife in this case. He did not disbelieve her, but his ruling left her in the difficulty that she could not secure a decree upon this evidence. He would leave it open to her to bring forward her petition upon further and better evidence, but that was the best he could do for her in the present circumstances.

NATIONAL STRING INSTRUMENTS (GUITARS, MANDOLINS AND UKULELES)

Lead because they agree with the following five points—
1. Powerful, rich, dynamic tone.
2. Perfect intonation.
3. Exquisite finish.
4. Unaffected by weather, water or temperature.
5. Will not crack or warp with ordinary care.

They are ideal for the beginner. It is a great mistake to buy a cheap musical instrument of any kind for a beginner. NOT ONLY DO THE POOR TONES OF A POOR INSTRUMENT TEND TO LESSEN THE PUPIL'S MUSICAL PERCEPTION BUT THERE IS NO TIME WHEN INSPIRATION IS MORE NEEDED THAN WHILE LEARNING TO PLAY.

To inspire the highest efforts it is essential to provide an instrument worthy of admiration and care.

SOPHIE KERR'S LATEST SUCCESS IN ROMANTIC PROBLEM FICTION "STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

CHAPTER XXI

"If I live to be ten thousand, or a hundred thousand or a million," said Alice Moreland, "I'll never forget the day you and Howard came home after he'd been sick with pneumonia, and you'd just got him to bed when I came dashing over to tell you that Edgar'd been captured by the Germans and I was so happy because he wouldn't have to fight any more and I could send him proper food and things. We stood there hugging each other and laughing with joy, because your husband was threatened with tuberculosis and mine was a prisoner of war! My dear, weren't we funny!"

"And that," said Amy, "was 15 years ago."

"I don't realize it until I look at the children. Nancy, a young lady, with auburn hair standing in line, and Howard Second as tall as his father, and my Virginia almost 14 and putting because I won't let her carry a vanity case, and young Ned entering grammar school next fall. They make me feel old as the hills."

"You don't look old, Alice. You don't look much older than Virginia."

"If I could only thin down a little! The styles are all so slimmy—not that I can afford any new clothes. I'm going to sew ruffles on all my last summer dresses and wear them again. I've got to. I told Edgar if he said one more word about business being bad I'd go out and buy me a whole new outfit, and he said, all right, it'll look swell in the poorhouse."

Amy laughed. "The faculty's about due for another cut, so I won't be getting anything new either. I'll have to fix up something for the Commencement parties, though, but I think I can find a piece of lace or chiffon over in Hopsonville and use my old blue satin for a slip. Nancy must have a couple of frocks, too."

"That young English instructor—what's his name—Carver—is giving Nancy a big rush, isn't he?"

And Victor Gates, too, the one the boys call 'Vee Gates.' But I thought, the other night at the Burgess party, that Nancy favoured the instructor."

"I don't know, Alice. They come and go too fast for me to keep their ratings straight. Yesterday Nancy was asking Howard for his volume of Kents. That looks like Richard Carver. Then Victor telephoned and he's coming up to try some new rhumba steps to-night when the Cubans are on the radio. So there you are."

"And the French professor last year—"

"Poor Blanchard—he did have it bad! I was glad that he didn't come back this year."

"Nancy's just like you, Amy. Edgar always says you had all the beaux in Marburg when you were a girl. She must have inherited it."

Amy looked at her visitor oddly. "You forget," she said "Nancy's not my own daughter."

"I always forget it! She seems like your own. Well, her mother must have been a heart-breaker, too."

With a flash of memory Amy recalled that none of the Marburg young men had ever liked Jane. They didn't go to see her nor take her about. But she could not tell that to Alice for Alice did not know whose child Nancy was. The secret had been well kept.

Nancy herself had asked, once, and Amy had said that all she could tell her was that her real mother was a beautiful and clever woman, whose circumstances wouldn't permit her to keep her child. Amy had wondered since if Nancy thought about it, or brooded over it privately, but she could never see a sign of it. There was nothing brooding or morbid about the spirited, active Nancy.

For a moment Amy wished that she had not brought up the subject with Alice. She was very fond of Alice and their neighbourly intimacy had always gone on without any hitch or break, but she felt a slight misapprehension.

green hat cocked over one ear, eyes very bright, cheeks very pink. "Oh, there you are, Mother. What is it, gingerbread? Let me do it and you go change for the brass' glee club, tra-la, tra-la!"

"What have you been up to? You look so monkeyish!"

Nancy giggled. "You're looking at Marburg's most popular gal, my lamb. So far four lads have tried to date me for the first dance out at the Lake Club. Vee Gates, first. Bill Dowling second, Red Purdy, third, and who do you think was the fourth? No less than the distinguished bachelor, Mr. James Trainor, lawyer, banker, man about town—and so far as I'm concerned, just a sprig of poison ivy, or a human hangnail. Here, I'll put that in the oven and watch it."

"I take it, you're not going with Jimmy, then?"

"Not even if all the other men in town had broken legs! Nor am I going with Bill, nor yet with Vee. And so what? Come along, ask me. Mother, you're giving me the very strange look. What's the matter?"

"Nothing, I was thinking of something else. Now what is it about the Lake Club dance, and why are you turning down Vee?"

and Bill? Is that what you want me to ask?"

"Well, darling, it's like this. I think maybe another boy friend will ask me, and of course he may not, and then, you observe, I'll lose out entirely. And it's so exciting to wait and wonder and to put everybody else off."

"You crazy young one. Serve you right if you did lose out. Shall I ask any more questions?"

"Maybe better not, but you can do a lot of silent guesswork if you're so minded."

"I must go and dress," said Amy. "Watch the gingerbread. It burns so easily. Can you come along with me and take some music down to the church? I promised I'd leave it there yesterday."

"Why not?" said Nancy. "As she went upstairs Amy heard, 'I've Got the World on a String' blithely whistled in the kitchen."

"It must be Dick Carver!" thought Amy. "Another professor's wife in the family! But he'll get along; he's got just the right blend of push and politics with real ability to back it up. And he's as sweet-tempered and generous as Howard."

"The gingerbread's done, and if I do say it myself, I baked it in truly masterly fashion. I am a

Both officers have received letters of commendation for the fine work performed in making the arrests.

Sunbonnets are all the rage in Utah this summer as the state prepares for the celebration of Pioneer Day, commemorating the founding of the state July 24, 1847, by Mormon emigrants who crossed the plains. And here are the Hunt sisters of Ogden—Alice, Rhoda and Grace—showing that the sunbonnet has all of the charm that song writers used to rave about.

Scenes like these dotted San Francisco streets as union tenters, 3,700 strong, went out on strike in sympathy with striking maritime workers. Huge trucks ceased rolling and fire of the strikers was taken out in overturning of non-union driven vehicles that attempted to make deliveries.

Elopement to Yuma, Ariz., united Ralph Graves, film actor and director, and Betty Flournoy, University of California at Los Angeles co-ed and actress, shown above. The couple met only a month ago. Until the ceremony neither would admit romance.

Done dry is the mighty Colorado river below Yuma, Ariz., after every bit of water is diverted to an intake canal to supply Colorado's Imperial Valley with barely enough water to supply domestic and livestock needs. Ex-Congressman Phil Swing (centre), left shown in the streambed where the water normally is 20 feet deep. He leaves for Washington to seek relief funds for the drought-stricken area.

Salvation Army Leadership

RESULT OF BALLOT EXPECTED TO-DAY

London, Aug. 28. The High Council of Salvation Army, comprising 47 men and women holding high office in the movement in various parts of the world, met to-day in London to appoint a successor to General Higgins when he retires from the leadership on November 1st.

The meeting was held in private and the voting will be by ballot.

Those taking part in the gathering include Commander Evangelina Booth, daughter of the Founder of the movement and Catherine Booth, daughter of the late General Bramwell Booth.

It is understood that both are among the fifteen who have been nominated for the Generalship.

The result will not be known until to-morrow afternoon at the earliest.

The Duke of York will preside at a farewell meeting to General Higgins at the Albert Hall on November 1st.—British Wireless.

BEYOND CONTROL OF OWNER

SUCCESSFUL PLEA IN NUISANCE CASE

Two summonses against Mrs. M. F. P. Laurence in respect of rubbish creating a nuisance at Nos. 6 and 38 Bulkeley Street, Hunghom, were dismissed to-day by the Kowloon Magistrate, Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones, following a successful plea by Mr. M. W. Lo, appearing for the owner.

Mr. Lo's explanation was that after the rubbish was removed from these empty floors in compliance with the Sanitary Department notice, a fresh deposit was made by what appeared to be next-door neighbours choosing a convenient method of disposing of their house refuse. Mr. Lo represented that the situation was one beyond the control of the owner, and suggested that this was where the Sanitary Department could lend their co-operation.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Out of the pages of history has come another great motion picture to thrill the theatre audiences with one of the finest romances seen upon the screen in recent years. This time it is "Operator 18", the exciting Robert W. Chambers story which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Cosmopolitan presents as Marion Davies' newest starring vehicle and which opens to-day at the Queen's Theatre. Yet it is not, in a sense, a war story. It is a gripping love story for which the Civil War serves only as a background. It is the story of an all-powerful love affair involving a beautiful woman spy of the Union army and a gallant spy of the Confederate forces. As Gall Lovdell, the federal spy who is sent into the Southern lines to destroy the most dangerous spy of the Confederacy, Miss Davies contributes her finest dramatic performance of her eventful screen career. Gary Cooper, the Southern spy, equally surpasses all his former screen roles as the man whom Miss Davies sets out to destroy and with whom she falls in love. The masterful direction of the picture was conducted by Richard Boleslavsky, former noted director and actor of the Moscow Art Theatre who has been responsible for such entertaining pictures as "Rasputin and the Empress" and "Men in White".

"The Invisible Man"

"The Invisible Man", one of the most effective of all the creatures created by Hollywood for spine tingling purposes is showing to-day at the King's Theatre, by special request for one day only. But "The Invisible Man" tops them by performing his sinister deeds under the cloak of invisibility. Just as the dark is far-compelling because of the unseen things which lurk in its inky blackness, a man who can outline into the air, such as "Jack Griffin", the mad super-scientist of the H. G. Wells tale, possesses more than human power. It is this power and its graphic effect on the other characters of the screen play which provides "The Invisible Man" with its stunning strangeness. Not in many months has a film caused such a startling sensation as this speculative screen treatise on invisibility, a subject by the way, which has intrigued man for countless ages.

"The Only Girl"

Lillian Harvey, the gay, winsome and provocative English star, is slated to have an ideal role in "The Only Girl", colourful musical romance which is to have its premiere at the Alhambra Theatre to-morrow. Playing opposite her in this film is one of the leading French actors, Charles Boyer, who played leads in the French versions of "The Big House" and "The Trial of Mary Dugan". "The Only Girl" is a British Gaumont-Ufa production, directed by Eric Pommer, and has been staged on the opulent and grandiose lines that have characterized similar pictures made by this organization "Congress Dances" and "Her Highness Commands" for example. Among notable settings are some charming reproductions of the court of the Empress Eugenie, around whom the story is largely woven. The music for the film was composed by Franz Waxmann and is based on contemporary motifs, Lillian Harvey sings a haunting Waltz-song, "How Can I Live Without You", which all Europe is humming. "The Only Girl" promises to be stimulating entertainment for jaded tastes seeking something new and different.

"No More Women"

Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen are at it again, forty fathoms under the sea, in the Paramount picture, "No More Women", coming on Thursday to the King's Theatre. Hard guys, sore-heads when their fight is private, they are pals to the death against outsiders. This time they are cast as two deep-sea divers. The film is a Charles R. Rogers production.

AUSTRIA'S
"BROWN BOOK"

Austria's determination to expose the part which German organisers played in the July putsch in Vienna is not difficult to understand. If proof of complicity exists, it is just as well to have it upon record. Beyond that, however, Dr. Schuschnigg, is not likely to receive much encouragement from the powers of Europe. The dangers that existed in the days of tension immediately following the death of Dr. Dollfuss have passed. Few will be willing to join in any measures, either at Geneva or elsewhere, which can only have the effect of stirring up further unpleasantness, for no good reason. For, after all, if Herr Hitler's action in the Vienna crisis can be interpreted as a permanent modification of his policy, he has already done much to repair the damage caused by the provocative propaganda and activities of the National Socialist Party in Austria. In the main, only two developments could provoke foreign intervention. The first would be the inability of the constituted authorities to maintain order. The second would be an overt act from the German side of the Austro-German border. Both were avoided in the time of crisis and are out of the question now. The stringent measure taken by Prince von Starheimberg to suppress revolutionary activity accomplished their purpose. Across the border Chancellor Hitler took every possible action to halt German embroilment in the situation. His orders scotched the plans of the "Austrian Legion" of National Socialists to march across the border from Munich. And his dismissal of the two party chieftains who had charge of the German activities in Austria gave effect to the desire of der Fuehrer to abandon the inflammatory Austrian policy which was so much a part of his doctrine before he came to

NOTES OF THE DAY
METAPHORICALLY SPEAKING

Current discussions of disarmament frequently employ a metaphor which is of very doubtful validity. National armies are denominated the police forces of the world, and this figure of speech reconciles many peace-loving persons to schemes of rearmament that they might otherwise look upon in a very different light. That a more simile should exercise such an influence upon individual thought is no new phenomenon. Persons acquainted with the history of mediaeval political theory will recall how republicanism was regarded for centuries in many countries as wicked because the (mistaken) assumption that there was only one sun in the skies led to the metaphorical identification of a single personal ruler with the sun and the consequent conferring upon monarchy of a sanction as though it were part of the order of nature. It therefore behooves thinking people to examine their metaphors—to recognise that between national armies and national police forces there are several important differences. In the first place, in some countries, as for instance Great Britain, the police force is practically unarmed, and the physical consequences arising from its actions are not in any way comparable with those resulting from the activities of a fully equipped military force.

A FALLACY

Again, police squads and individuals work under severely applied rules, and these rules can be appealed to for protection by the very people against whom the police are at any moment acting. This is not the case with an army, for even such "laws" of war as exist gain little observance once hostilities have begun. Thirdly, the aims of the police and of an army are generally not the same. The police do not as a rule set out to destroy the opposing force. They attempt primarily to bring this opposing force to the bar of justice. But armies do not set out to bring the "enemy" before the bar of international justice, for no such bar, in any practical sense, exists. But if the establishment of this bar were made the definite aim of international policy, the distinction between armies and police forces might then tend to disappear. This does not necessarily mean that national armies are unjustifiable. But it does indicate the fallacy of giving facile approval to the reckless increase of armed forces on the assumption that such forces are a normal, peaceful, law-abiding and law-preserving police establishment.

GERMAN SHIPPING

The readiness of the German Government to take part in an international Conference for settling the problem of shipping subsidies and related questions has been welcomed by British shipowners. Those of them who are aware of the adverse consequences that must result from a more active policy of subsidisation on the part of the British Government have recently taken up somewhat more pessimistic attitude towards this subject, because after the notes sent by the Scandinavian countries, the Netherlands and Greece no further declarations in favour of a Conference have been received and because the more important shipping countries have refrained so far from expressing any opinions. It is these owners who especially welcome the German reply. It is pointed out by them that Germany's attitude may strengthen Mr. Rundstedt, the President of the Board of Trade, in his professed dislike of subsidies, despite the criticism to which he has exposed himself thereby.

power. Moreover, the despatch of von Papen as "peace" emissary to Vienna, indicates that Germany is taking every means to keep its desire for Austro-German union from being linked with a premature move of an extreme minority which took too seriously the Munich propaganda favouring forceful unification of the two countries. Objections to the union of Austria and Germany cannot for ever stand in the face of the inherent ethnic and economic justification for the Anschluss. But as long as force and coercion are used as the methods by which this union is sought, there will be logical and insuperable reasons for many nations on the continent to oppose vigorously a Teutonic bloc that would extend from the Brenner to the Baltic. Herr Hitler appears to-day to realise this as well as any.

1914—1934 PROFIT AND LOSS

By ROBERT LYND

WHEN war broke out in 1914 it was almost immediately hailed by some optimists on the Allied side as a War to End War. Whether it will ultimately prove to have been so, it is yet too early to say. The end of war for all time is not officially acknowledged in practice to-day by any Government in Europe.

One of the most conspicuous effects of the war, indeed, has been to intensify the belief in the gospel of force even outside international affairs. Revolution, which is only war between fellow-countrymen, has become one of the commonplaces of European politics. The Civil War Lord has taken the place of the older kind of War Lord: Hitler stands in the shoes of the Kaiser.

Over the greater part of Europe dictatorships, based upon force, have come into existence; and if the war did not succeed in ending war it has at least gone a considerable distance towards ending liberty. The price that Europe has paid for the destruction of Junkerdom has been the triumph of the more tyrannous Nazism. Italy enjoys the peace of Fascism, but no longer breathes the free air of 1914.

IS EUROPE HAPPIER?

The Bolshevik revolution, which was certainly hastened by the war and probably even directly caused by it, is regarded by many people as an event that shows that the world has gained as well as lost as a result of the war. The principle of human equality, we are told, has now been established for all time. It may be so, but while the Communist theory puts the clock forward as regards equality it puts it back as regards liberty. It is still too early to foresee the consequences of this vast experiment.

There has, it must be admitted, been an increase of liberty in one direction. A number of countries—Poland, Czechoslovakia and the Irish Free State—have been added to the family of the free nations. But whether the Europe that we see in 1934 is on the whole happier and a cause for greater hope than the Europe we knew in 1914 is a question difficult to answer.

I doubt if Europe is happier, but it seems to me that there are causes for hope even in the present condition of things. The principle of human equality may not yet be recognised universally, but, even outside Russia, events are moving towards the abolition of gross inequality. War has been declared on class distinctions in Berlin as well as in Moscow, and I have heard Fascism defended on the ground that it, no less than Bolshevism, is a movement towards social levelling.

The spread of the belief in equality, however, is not entirely a result of the war and the revolutions that followed it: it is due largely to the fact that Nature and science between them have in recent years proved to be able to provide more than enough for the needs of everybody and that the cold-blooded principle "The Devil take the hindmost" is no longer necessary if we could only solve the problem of distribution.

As for England itself, it is impossible to say whether happiness is more widespread to-day than it was before the war. There has undoubtedly been a great increase in the popularisation of pleasure. Wireless, the cinema, football, lawn tennis, dog racing—all these at least keep millions of people from being bored. There is more travel if it is only as far as to Brighton. There are more holidays, if only for the day, in the country and at the sea. Hikers have become more numerous than cyclists, and herds of people seem to be able to afford pleasure cruises.

AND NOW TO-DAY.

If we saw England only at its pleasures and never visited a mining village or a Labour Exchange we should be led to the conclusion that England in 1934 is happier than it has ever been before. The fact remains, however, that before the war very few people would have regarded any country as happy in which more than 2,000,000 people could find no employment, even though they were reserved from starvation by the dole.

To the ordinary elderly pre-war Englishman, indeed, the England of 1934, if he could have foreseen it, would not have appeared as at all a desirable place to live in. He had considerable apprehensions about women's suffrage. He would have been horrified by the increase of divorce. He would have been shocked if he had been told that birth-control would become as ordinary a topic of discussion as Free Trade and that people would be talking and writing about sex as excitedly as if it were a new discovery. He would not have liked the freer-spoken manners of the young, and he would have been alarmed over the possible results of the decline of religious belief.

The fact that thousands of people are killed on the roads every year without anyone being able to discover a means of bringing their killers to book would have struck him as a mark of decadence. And, if he had foreseen the size of the Income Tax, his heart would have broken in sympathy.

On some matters his pessimism would, I think, have been justified; and no man can say for certain what will be the end of some of the modern experiments with new social faiths and new moral ideas. The world is now in an experimental mood, either because it is weary of traditional ways or because it feels that the traditional ways have failed.

In two directions at least, happily, it is experimenting, however blindly and incompetently, towards noble ends—a juster distribution of the necessities and luxuries of life and the abolition of war as a means of settling the disputes of nations.

The hatred of war—hatred based on experience—is more deep-seated and widespread to-day, I imagine, than at any other period in history. It is no longer a half-academic hatred, but a hatred as passionate as the hatred of torture or of cruelty to children. If this hatred can find practical expression in the world-politics of the next generation few people will look back enviously to the comparatively happy years before 1914.

The Very Idea!

THE BOOK OF ASUWERUS
Chapter 15

Now the Sanhedrin met yet again, as the manner was, to consider the necessities of the people. And all the Elders, yea even to seventy and two of them, were assembled together.

2. And the Master of the Watch said, Behold! the people follow after their old gods, and put them to worship. The old customs cling hard and the people go not forward.

3. And I say unto you that this thing hindereth the people that they progress not. For all the nations of the world hanker after strange gods, save only these our tribes.

4. And peradventure they shall worship new gods also or else they shall perish. And the Elders spake one with another and they found the speech to be good.

5. Then the Chief of the Elders said: Tell me, I pray thee, how thou wouldst wane the people to other worship, for they like not to change.

6. And he answered in turn and said Behold let us bring forth a new god, a new and costly god, let it be covered in emeralds, and amber, and rubies.

7. And let it have many eyes that none may escape its gaze. And let it be set up in the centre of the city, at the cross-roads. And cause all to stop and bow before it.

8. And it came to pass that all was done as was prophesied by the Captain of the Watch. And the new god was set up costing much gold and silver.

Chapter 16

And the people despised the new god as was foretold by Asuwerus the Scribe. They were stubborn and stiff-necked and would not bow before the new idol.

2. And the scribes wrote and preached against it saying, Give us back our old gods for they were familiar gods and knew us. But this, even tho' it has twelve eyes, knows us not.

3. And there was one of great strength yea, he was a mighty hunter. And he smote the idol between the eyes. And the head of the idol was turned, so his eyes saw not. And the people laughed and said, Where is the power of this mighty god?

4. Then arose one of the judges of the land and he comforted the people saying, Be ye of good cheer. For should ye not bow down before this new god, then do ye not transgress.

5. For the law takes no account of idols. And there was great rejoicing in the land and the residue of the people called one to the other: Evoal! Evoal! in the ancient manner of being joyful during the sacrifice even as when pressing the grape of the vine.

6. Now there was one of the scribes, the Scoffer, who excelled all the other scribes. And he scoffed at them and he said unto them: What know ye of this god?

7. For ye be as women, yea ye know not the law, ye be as of no account. For I preach against this god with knowledge.

8. I am as a prophet crying out in the wilderness, Ye, as the chosen sought for manna so do I seek for wisdom in the Sanhedrin. As the gleaners seek for corn among the stubble, so do I seek for wisdom among the speech of the Elders. And their wisdom is even to the corn, after the gleaners have gleaned.

MR. CASSIDY'S PROTESTAgainst Imports And Exports Dept.*BUSINESS FIRMS IN COURT

A strong protest was voiced at the Central Magistracy this morning by Mr. P. S. Cassidy, partner of Messrs. John D. Hutchison & Company, against the action of the Imports and Exports Department in summoning the firm for failing to furnish the Department with a declaration of imported goods within the required period of seven days.

Mr. Cassidy, in admitting the offence in respect to 17 cases of builders' hardware imported on the President Cleveland from New York on July 23, said the failure to declare was due to a change of staff, returns having got rather behind time.

"As a matter of fact," said Mr. Cassidy, "we were relying upon a reminder, which it is usual for the Department to send us in the event of a return not having been received by them. We rather think that any reputable firm, which has been conscientiously sending their returns, should, perhaps, be given some reminder. There are cases, of course, where it is impossible to supply details owing to the absence of documents. This is the first time we have been summoned, and I am asking for a nominal fine or a caution."

Mr. J. Barrow, Assistant Superintendent of the Imports and Exports Department, said that reminders were sent out at the rate of 2,000 to 4,000 a month to all firms. All firms had also been warned through the Chamber of Commerce and other channels.

Mr. E. W. Hamilton, imposed a fine of $20.

Mr. H. Owen Hughes, director of Messrs. Harry Wicking & Company, Ltd., appeared for the Company summoned for failing to declare 20 boxes of oranges imported from Los Angeles on the President Cleveland. He admitted the offence and a fine of $20 was imposed.

DELAYED THROUGH STRIKE.

Mr. Owen Hughes explained that that the oranges were supposed to have been shipped from San Francisco, but owing to the strike they were not shipped from there, with the result that the shippers were late in sending their documents, and his firm did not receive them until August 3.

They did their best in the matter. They had been advised of the arrival of the goods, because it was refrigerated cargo, and delivery had to be taken at once. They took delivery and at the same time made out a declaration form on July 23, and kept it until they received the full particulars on August 3, and they sent the declaration certainly within a week of August 3, but he had been told it was received by the Department on August 15.

Mr. Hamilton: I cannot make any exception.

Mr. Owen Hughes: I am not asking for any exception, but merely wish to explain that we did all in our power, and the Department has had no cause for complaint against us in the past. I would like to say that on one or two occasions, we did receive reminders from the Department, and we were able on more than one occasion to show them that our declarations had been sent. And on further search in their offices, the declarations were duly found.

Mr. Hamilton: I am extremely sorry to do it, but I must fine you $20.

Twelve other firms were summoned in respect of similar offences, the cargo in every case having been brought on the President Cleveland on July 23, and delivery taken either on the same day or the following day.

SUMMONS CANCELLED.

In all cases, the same fine of $20 was imposed, except in the summons against the Hong Kam Ham Company, No. 175 Lockhart Road, which was cancelled. Mr. Barrow stating that the company had gone out of business two months ago.

Mr. G. Duncan, a representative of Messrs. W. R. Loxley & Company Ltd., summoned in respect of three cases of hair preparation, pleaded guilty and stated that the matter was unfortunately overlooked as the clerk in charge of the business had suddenly died. Immediately, they found that the declaration had not been sent, they reported the importation on August 20.

A fine of $20 was imposed. Mr. C. D'Almada appeared on behalf of Messrs. Connell Brothers Company, Ltd., summoned in respect of 380 cases of Quaker Oats, and a fine of $20 was imposed.

Mr. P. H. Sin, appeared on behalf of the Hongkong Sporting Arms and Ammunition Store, No. 22 Pottinger Street, and also

THE GREAT SILENCEMR. HORE BELISHA ENTHUSIASTIC*ORDER LIKELY TO BE PERMANENT

London, Aug. 28. Reports from all sources reached the Transport Ministry to-day regarding the first experience of the Silence Zone in London which became effective last night.

These reports are so favourable that there is little doubt that the order will become permanent, particularly as, according to many observers, the experiment had led to the exercise of greater caution by drivers.

The Transport Minister, Mr. L. Hore-Belisha is highly gratified with the result of experiment and issued a statement this afternoon as follows:

"Thank you, London. Thank you, motorists and pedestrians, in equal measure for your splendid co-operation last night. Let us continue as we have begun."

Shanghai, Aug. 28. Drought-stricken districts along the Shanghai-Nanking Railway have been favoured by several heavy showers in the last two days. The fall was particularly heavy in many districts in Kiangsu Province.

Chekiang Province was also visited by torrential rains yesterday afternoon, definitely breaking the drought spell.—Central News admitted the summons. A fine of $20 was imposed.

OTHER DEFENDANTS.

The other firms fined $20 each were as follows:

Eastman Kodak Company, No. 67 Queen's Road, Central, importing eight boxes of films from New York. The Far Eastern Aviation Company, Ltd., No. 20 Queen's Road, Central, importing one box of motor car supplies. Hing Tai & Fung Company, No. 53 Queen's Road, Central, importing 270 boxes of oranges from Los Angeles. Hongkong Silk Store, No. 60 Queen's Road, Central, importing one case of rayon goods from Yokohama. Oriental Drug Company, No. 90 Queen's Road, Central, importing five barrels of Salicylic acid from Los Angeles.

Thom's Groceries, No. 27 Des Voeux Road, Central, importing 235 boxes of oranges from Los Angeles. Wing Coffee Company, No. 119 Des Voeux Road, Central, importing 100 boxes of oranges from Los Angeles. Yau Hing Loong firm, No. 58 Bonham Strand, West, importing 53 cases of provisions from Kobe.

GEN. JOHNSON GETS A RAISEFROM $6,000 TO $15,000 YEARLY*SACRIFICE JOB(Special to "Telegraph")(By Telegraph. Copyright. Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1911. Received August 29, 7.50 a.m.)*

Washington, Aug. 28. It was revealed to-day that in addition to winning his battle with Mr. Donald Rieberg, the N.R.A. Administrator, General Hugh Johnson has been granted a raise in salary from $6,000 annually to U.S.$15,000 annually, dating from July 1.

It is stated that President Roosevelt decided on this step in order to enable General Johnson to meet heavy living expenses and to bring his remuneration in line with the value of his services.—Reuter Special.

The United Press states that the increase in salary makes General Johnson the Government's most highly paid Emergency Agency official.

The General has frequently complained that he could not sacrifice his private earning capacity of U.S.$100,000 yearly for Government service.

A MONTH FOR A MEALHAD NO INTENTION OF PAYING

Wong Yan, at the Kowloon Court to-day, was accused of ordering a $15 meal from a restaurant, to be taken to his home, and to have removed from the floor when the bill-collector called.

A legal point arose about whether instead of false pretences, fraud should have been the proper charge—that at the time he ordered the food the accused person had had no intention of paying.

This was borne out by an admission in his signed statement to the Police, and on this he was convicted of obtaining credit by fraud, and sentenced by Mr. Wynne-Jones to a month hard labour.

Changchun, Aug. 28.

According to statistics issued here, the total amount of new Japanese capital invested in Manchuria since the Japanese military occupation is estimated at about Yen 90,000,000, while the number of business and industrial enterprises of major scale is 132, most of which are engaged in mining, railway and highway building, electricity and water supplying, transport services and so on.—Central News.

Threat of New DutyJAPANESE GLOBES IN BRITAIN

London, Aug. 28.

The Board of Trade has announced that a report from the Import Duties Advisory Committee dated 4th October, 1933, recommending increased duties on electric lamps is being published to-morrow.

Increased imports of these goods in recent years have come mainly from Japan and, since this report was received, His Majesty's Government after consultation with the United Kingdom electric lamp manufacturers have discussed with the representatives of the Japanese Government the question of restricting the imports of electric lamps from that country.

As a result of these discussions, it has now been decided not to give effect for the present to the recommendation of the Import Duties Advisory Committee, provided that the imports of electric lamps from Japan during the year commencing April 1, 1934, do not exceed certain specified totals.—British Wireless.

CHINESE DOCTOR ARRESTEDALLEGES "PLANTING" OF TICKETS

A Chinese doctor, Ching Chau, appearing before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning, denied a charge of possession of 36 pin lottery tickets at Connaught Road Central. A Chinese detective said he arrested defendant at 11.40 a.m. yesterday in the side lane opposite the Douglas Wharf, on information. The tickets were found in his upper jacket pocket. He alleged defendant attempted to resist arrest.

Defendant, giving evidence stated that he lived at No. 336, Shanghai Street. Leung Man-ho, employed as lift-boy at Butterfield and Swire, owed him $50 and had promised to make good the debt. When he went to get payment, Leung sent for a policeman. Defendant contended that he was arrested in the lane near Butterfield and Swire's offices, and that the tickets were "planted" on him.

The magistrate adjourned the case till to-morrow, when the lift-boy will be called. Defendant was released on bail of $30.

WAR VETERAN IN COURTFINED DOLLAR FOR HAWKING

Formerly a seaman in the Merchant Service during the war, and holder of the Victory and General Service medals, Ching Yik, aged 63, of No. 261 Wanchai Road, was charged before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning with hawking his wares in a prohibited area, Queen's Road Central. He pleaded guilty.

Sub-Inspector L. Mist mentioned that the defendant had special recommendations from the Admiralty.

It was stated the defendant took out a licence in 1929 and his record was clear. He was fined one dollar.

ATTEMPT TO STEAL HANDBAGWOULD-BE THIEF SENT TO PRISON

"The fact that you were unsuccessful makes no difference," remarked Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning, when he passed sentence of six months' hard labour on Yu Hi, 22, unemployed, who admitted attempting to steal a handbag from a married woman, Wong Yuk. Detective-Sergeant Goodwin stated the attempt was made outside the Queen's Theatre at noon yesterday. A detective was nearby and arrested defendant.

LISTEN

Here is indisputable evidence why FISHER REINFORCED STEEL BODIES AS USED BY CHEVROLET ARE STRONGER, MORE DURABLE, MORE RESILIENT AND SAFER than the so-called "ALL STEEL" automobile bodies.

Manufacturers of competitive cars that use this so-called "all steel" construction have claimed that ocean liners, Pullman cars, and modern skyscrapers use the "all-steel" construction and therefore it is better.

BUT comparing an all-steel automobile body to an ocean liner, Pullman car, or modern skyscraper, does not prove the superiority of all-steel construction for automobile bodies.

LANCASHIRE CRICKET CHAMPIONS

REGAIN TITLE AFTER FOUR YEARS

SURREY LUCKY TO DRAW

SEASON DRAWS TO CLOSE

Lancashire have won the county cricket championship, thereby succeeding Yorkshire, winners for the last three years, and regaining the honour last won in 1930.

This is the eighth time in the history of the championship that Lancashire have won the title outright. On three other occasions they shared the distinction. In 1870 they tied with Nottingham, and the two teams repeated this in 1882, while in 1889, Lancashire, Nottingham and Surrey all finished on equal terms.

Lancashire first won the championship outright in 1881. Since 1920 they have been champion county five times. They held the title for three successive years (1926-28) and again in 1930.

RESULTS AT A GLANCE.

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP.

Middlesex (312 & 285-5 dec.) beat Kent (138 & 193) by 265 runs. Nottingham (361) beat Somerset (211 & 44-2) on first innings. Yorkshire (246) beat Hampshire (263) on first innings. Worcester (312 & 278-0 dec.) beat Leicestershire (211 & 26-1) on first innings. Essex (312 & 337-4 dec.) beat Gloucestershire (210 & 43-1) on first innings. Lancashire (453-8 dec.) beat Surrey (294 & 172-5) on first innings.

FRIENDLY.

Australians (560) beat Sussex (304-8 dec. & 211) by innings and 35 runs.

BEST PERFORMANCES

BATTING.

BOWLING.

Staples, A. (Nottingham) v Somerset	6 for 39
Watt (Kent) v Middlesex	6 for 95
Fleetwood-Smith (Australians) v Sussex	5 for 87
O'Reilly (Australians) v Sussex	4 for 49

Successive years (1926-28) and again in 1930. Sussex with one more match to play should just about be able to secure second place, although they are meeting Yorkshire, and success for the former champions would entitle them to depose Sussex.

EASILY ACCOMPLISHED.

Lancashire had only to hold Surrey to a draw to make the championship theirs. This is what happened, although Lancashire gained a moral victory, easily having the better of the game.

A big score of 453 for 8 declared made the Lancastrians immune from defeat, and finally Surrey were struggling to save the game. In response to Lancashire's score, to which Hopwood contributed 151, Surrey hit up 294. Holmes scoring 115, and then followed on, playing out time to register 172 for the loss of five wickets.

RAIN INTERFERES.

Rain considerably interfered with the cricket programme, and Middlesex alone was outplayed. They easily beat Kent, the Kent County batting very poorly. Watt bowled skillfully for Kent to take 6 for 55, but Middlesex were always on top.

LEAGUE TENNIS

S. CHINA RETAIN 100% RECORD

South China Athletic Association retained their 100 per cent. record in the "C" Division of the tennis league on Monday, when they defeated Kowloon Bowling Green Club by six sets to love, three sets being unplayed.

Scores were:

J. L. Tetley and L.A.R. Duncan (K.B.G.C.) lost to F. N. Wong and C. P. Ip 1-6; lost to K. H. Wong and C. N. Tsang 5-7.

S. Randle and T. Armstrong (K.B.G.C.) lost to H. K. Ho and K. F. Liu 4-6; lost to Wong and Tsang 1-6.

F. T. Bawa and D. W. Waterton (K.B.G.C.) lost to Wong and Ip 2-6; lost to Ho and Liu 1-6.

BATTALION ROWING.

Competition Held By East Lancashire Regiment.

The East Lancashire Regiment recently held three rowing contests for the Battalion Trophy, "D" (S) Company finishing top with an aggregate of 13 points. They won one event and were second in the other two. "A" Company (with one win, one second and one third giving a total of 12 points) were second and "B" Company third with seven points.

Nottingham, Yorkshire, Worcester and Essex all had to rest content with first innings wins. Yorkshire's game with Hampshire was so restricted that it was only possible to complete an innings apiece.

The results and individual scores were supplied by Reuter.

The latest results find the first six positions in the county cricket championship held as follows:

	1st	2nd	3rd	4th	5th	6th
Lancashire	453	294	172	115	94	63
Surrey	294	172	115	94	63	53

BIG CROWD THRILLED BY EXCHANGES

FUJIKURA EXPLOITS MCGRATH BACKHAND VOLLEY

LOCAL PLAYERS HOLD THEIR OWN IN HIGH SPEED DISPLAY

(By "Veritas")

Spectacular tennis kept a crowd of over 500 keenly interested for two hours at the Kowloon Cricket Club yesterday, when the Japanese Davis Cup players made an appearance in exhibition matches. Everybody was intensely anxious to see these young sons of Nippon who had made such a meteoric rise to the heights in international tennis, and they did not disappoint.

Although neither Yamagishi, Fujikura nor Nishimura were consistently up to top form, they constantly revealed flashes of those characteristics which feature their play. Yamagishi's volleying, Fujikura's overhead and Nishimura's perfect style were all illustrated in the course of a programme of high-speed tennis.

Yamagishi was by far the most spectacular player on view, and by the same token he was the most erratic and committed more errors than anybody else. But that he is a magnificent player, very brave, well equipped with strokes and boasting many unusual features in technique was quickly made obvious.

ACE SERVICES.

He showed the crowd what ace services really are: he also demonstrated the effect of an attacking volley: his ground strokes are not so polished as those of Nishimura or Fujikura, but when he is in the forecourt, he stands out as a brilliant exponent of the volley, half volley and smash.

The high spots of Fujikura's play were his backhand driving and overhead. He took the ball in any part of the court and smacked it away for an ace. Off the ground, his early forehand and backhand drives were excellent examples of the modern type of tennis. In his singles with Tauli Wai-pui, Fujikura emphasised this part of his game, constantly opening up a safe net attack with lightning speed.

Nishimura played rather restrained tennis, but his beautiful stroke production was a delight to watch. The return of service, which invariably found his opponent's feet as he rushed the net, were models of combined accuracy and speed. Nishimura has excellent footwork which allows him to jump quickly into position to change the direction of his shot at the last minute. Several times he found the side lines in this way—a raking drive which left the receiver standing.

TWO HANDED VOLLEY.

Fujikura demonstrated the two-handed volley on the backhand, but he did not time his shots correctly and netted every one. Nevertheless the tremendous speed obtained from such a stroke was quite a revelation. When effected it is quite likely the fastest volley possible.

Some of the best tennis of the afternoon was the doubles between Yamagishi and H. D. Ramjahn and Fujikura and Nishimura. Once the players had warmed up, they went out for daring shots. Volleying was specially featured, with all the players putting in some very smart work. Overhand there was considerable inconsistency. H. D. Ramjahn held his own in fine style, now and again being presented with opportunities to whip out his favourite backhand drive down the forehand lines.

COUSINS UP TO FORM.

He and S. A. Ramjahn played worthily against Nishimura and Yamagishi, national champions of Japan, and in the second set the rallies were extraordinary keen and enjoyable. Sider several times found a gap between the Japanese and put the ball away down the middle of the court with backhand volleys. In smashing the local players left much to be desired. They were constantly outwitted by Yamagishi's lob volley—a magnificent stroke, calling for perfect judgment—and when they did get a chance to despatch a short lob, they only half-hit the ball.

Tauli Wai-pui found Fujikura setting a cracking pace in their singles, but the local champion responded gallantly, and brought off a series of excellent recovery shots which forced the Japanese into errors. Fujikura was continually at the net, following up his very fine flat racket drives to the corners, and the manner in which the Japanese effected his cut off volleys was an eye-opener.

The two played attractive tennis, and Tauli did much better than the scores suggest, although his service went to pieces. The feature of Tauli's play was his strokes off the ground. Yet he was never able to fathom the pace of Fujikura's shots and so often found himself making strokes: a split second too late.

MAX TOUR INDIA.

Following the matches, the visitors were entertained to dinner by Japanese residents and later they sailed for North by the Torukuni Maru.

Before leaving they expressed themselves very happy to have made an appearance on Hongkong tennis courts, and expressed the hope they would be here again. Fujikura told me before he left that "it is doubtful whether he would be a member of the Davis Cup team next year, as he had examinations to pass in the spring." He anticipated going to India with a team which is being sent by the Japanese Lawn Tennis Association.

ENGLISH CRICKET AVERAGES

HAMMOND NOW WELL AHEAD

Walter Hammond, the Gloucestershire batsman, was well ahead of the rest of the field in the English first class cricket batting averages on Friday, August 3. The leading averages in batting and bowling, together with those of the Australians, follow.

ENGLISH FOOTBALL CLUBS REPORT ON PROSPECTS

MAJORITY EXPECT TO SHOW IMPROVEMENT

Chelsea Refuse To Heed A Warning

Nearly all of the clubs competing in first class football in England have reported improvements for the current season which has just started. Below will be found prospects of some of the leading clubs, including those of the Arsenal.

It is evident that Arsenal do not intend to surrender easily the title of League champions. During the summer months, they have added to their staff three players, Crayston, Copping and Dr. Marshall, at a cost of approximately £20,000, with the firm intention of emulating the performance of Huddersfield Town by winning the League three times running.

Last season there was much shaking of heads over the wing half-back positions and the retirement of David Jack. Now there can be no misgivings, for Crayston and Copping are two of the finest half-backs in football to-day, while Marshall has been secured to fill the vacancy left by Jack.

In this instance it is not certain that Marshall will fill the bill. He will require time to settle down in English football and he may not have the pace necessary to fit in with the quick-moving Highbury attack. Yet Arsenal need have no cause for concern, for there is Bowden to fall back upon. It is certain that Bowden, when he has learned to part with the ball accurately, will make the inside-right position his own.

MANY CENTRE FORWARDS.
It is difficult to visualise any team outstripping Arsenal from their place at the top of the table. The champions start off with practically the same side, the same highly-developed teamwork and under a manager who will pay great attention to their physical condition. G. F. Allison is not expected to repeat the mistakes made last year when the League title was nearly thrown away by a lack of foresight.

Incidentally, we wonder what the Arsenal will do with their overabundance of centre-forwards. At present they have Drake, Dunne, Chelms, Cox, the Sussex cricketer, and Carr from the North-East. Which of them will shake the dust of Highbury from his feet when the season is well under way?

CHELSEA HOPES

WARNING REMAINS UNHEEDED

Last season Chelsea escaped relegation by the narrow margin of two points. Yet the management has not taken heed of the warning. The club will begin the coming campaign with practically the same team and the same reserve talent.
Indeed, the only newcomers are Smith, a big, strong inside forward from Birmingham, and Duncan, a little outside-left from West Ham. It seems that Chelsea are content to let matters stand and hope for the best.
No doubt the argument is that the players who took the team to safety

NOTTS COUNTY

Idea Manager Jones Has Introduced

Notts County have decided upon a new policy both with regard to training and management.
They have placed Charlie Jones, of the Arsenal, in charge, and his first move was to improve the dressing-room accommodation for, as he said: "Here is where the work has to be done."

That completed he is introducing football, tennis, and an indoor ball-practice room, and another feature will be an instructional school.
I intend to carry on training on coaching lines more than it has ever been practised before," he said in an interview "and I have brought with me for this purpose Seiden, an ex-Arsenal player, who will be trainer."

So far only three new players have joined the staff, Hoskett, a goalkeeper, from Lincoln, McGrath, an outside-right, from Port Vale, and Rankin, an inside-right, from Chelsea. It is the intention to play what is known as the third-back formation, and Manager Jones feels that he will succeed in at least improving the quality of football.

Several ground improvements have been effected during the close season, including the re-roofing of one of the stands, the fitting of tip-up chairs in place of forms in the centre stand, and the erection of a new board room.

In the second half of last season are quite good enough for the task in hand. Admittedly they accomplished a wonderful performance, seeing that Chelsea had only eight points at Christmas, but the players are a year older and will reveal the same weakness. Chelsea will have trouble on the wings and a tendency to be ultra-clever in attack rather than effective.

LUCK MAY CHANGE.

It is understood that Chelsea cannot afford to buy new players. Yet it would be cheaper to the club in the long run if they speculated now before the trouble arrives. Perhaps if Chelsea start promisingly and have two or three good home games they will strengthen their playing resources.

Chelsea's main hopes rest in immunity from injuries and the infusion of team-work and the will-to-win spirit. Last year Chelsea were sadly handicapped by the loss of Law and Priestley (who has not yet re-signed) at critical stages. It is to be hoped that their luck will change in this respect, and also that they will play throughout the season with the same dash and determination as in those hectic closing months.

WEST BROMWICH

Albions Tried And Trusted Brigade

West Bromwich Albion have signed on a few new players, but it is unlikely that any of them will displace the old and tried men who constituted the side last season.

The club have a new back in J. Screen, of Smethwick Highfield; a new half in E. Humpley, of Easington Colliery; and three fresh forwards in G. Spencer, of Nantwich; J. Singleton, of Cleaton Moor; and C. Grosvenor, of Vono Sports (a local club). The last named is brother to Tom Grosvenor, Birmingham's international, and is well spoken of. Spencer gave a very stimulating show when he played in a charity match at the back-end of last season for a picked Cheshire side against the Albion Reserves.

Half a dozen old players have been allowed to go elsewhere. P. H. Griffiths has gone to Cardiff, J. H. Turner to Boscombe, T. Magee and G. Handley to Crystal Palace, A. Tittle to Port Vale, and S. Horrocks to Swinton. The registered players are:

Goal: H. F. Pearson, E. Crowe, J. Adams.
Backs: G. E. Shaw, H. F. Trenham, A. R. Finch, H. E. Foulkes, J. Swinden, J. Screen (Smethwick Highfield).
Half-backs: W. Richardson, J. Edwards, J. Murphy, B. Trevis, J. Rix, J. Sankey, G. Thompson, A. Ridyard, J. Kirtan, E. Humpley (Easington Colliery).
Forwards: T. W. Glidden, J. H. Carter, W. G. Richardson, E. Sandford, S. Wood, H. Raw, W. Boyes, T. Gale, W. W. Robbins, T. Green, L. Coen, M. Wilson, H. J. Jones, J. A. Hickman, J. Singleton (Cleaton Moor), C. Grosvenor (Vono Sports), G. Spencer (Nantwich).

THIS TIME READING

Will Promotion Evade Them This Term?

For the past few seasons Reading have had promotion almost within their grasp and have missed it by one, two or three points only. Last term injuries played a big part in the club failing to gain promotion.

Nineteen of last season's players have been retained and newcomers include well experienced players in J. L. McGann, who for several seasons has been on the books of Stockport County; W. Robson, a back from West Ham; and Hugh McMahon, an inside-forward from Southend.

Other players signed include two local amateurs in G. M. Devill, a back from Wycombe Wanderers, and H. E. Dollyer, the Warwickshire cricketer, an inside-forward, who had a season last year with West Bromwich colts, and on a month's trial are Fitzgerald, left-half, from Denny (Midland League); Clark, of Dawdon Colliery, inside-left; Spenny-moor United, centre-forward; and Palmer, an ex-Army left-half, who has played for Dundee.

Last season's players who have fixed up with other clubs are Richardson (Boscombe), Harston (Bristol City), Fox (Clapton Orient) and Ridley (Queen's Park Rangers).

Goalkeepers: Whitaker, McGann (Stockport).
Backs: Howe, Morris, Boyle, Darville (Wycombe Wanderers), Robson (West Ham).
Half-backs: Johnson, Hayhurst, Wright, Townsend, Telling, Dutton (Darwen).
Forwards: Gregory, Liddle, Butler, McGough, Samuel, Newton, Chandler, Oxberry, Barley, Fielding, McMahon (Southend), Dollyer (West Bromwich Colts).

NEWPORT COUNTY

BEST SIDE FOR SEVERAL SEASONS

Manager Jimmy Hindmarsh says the Newport side on paper is the strongest the club have had for several seasons.

Much attention has been given to the half-back line, an evident weakness in many matches last season. This line will be the staid for the inclusion of Fred McKenzie, who returns to his former club after six seasons with Plymouth Argyle.

Another noteworthy addition to the half-back line is G. W. Odell, transferred from Northampton to Wigan Borough at a big fee. He is regarded by those in the know as Newport's "star" capture. Then John Howard Davies, of Merthyr, right-half, comes to the club with a big reputation. The only half-back retained is Whitehouse, a local lad.

From Plymouth Argyle comes Anthony Bird, who, with Litherland, a former Everton player, will share the leadership of the attack.

Great things are expected in defence from Eric James Cook, who played for Tottenham Hotspur last season. A full-back, he is equally at home on either flank.

TOTTENHAM MAKE A POOR START

NOT YET SHAPING LIKE A CHAMPION TEAM

VARIABLE FORM FEATURES OPENING MATCHES

The first few days of the Homeside football season have, as usual, supplied a number of surprising results. It is still far too early to form definite opinions, but there has been a lot of significant material in the results of the matches to date.

Tottenham Hotspur have been very slow off the mark, and one point from two home matches certainly does not invite confidence in the idea that they will figure prominently in the championship struggle.

On the other hand the flying start made by Preston North End is one of the big features. Already Preston have shown they are going to be one of the most difficult teams in the country to beat.

The Arsenal have started quietly. To capture a point at Fratton Park was quite a good performance, and they were only denied the whole of the reward by an equalising goal in the last minute.

The mid week games revealed a variance in form, which is to be expected at this time of the season, and it is far wiser to refrain from coming to conclusions from this first series of matches.

This Saturday's programme indicates wholesale victories for home teams. The Arsenal are before their own supporters, as are Chelsea, but Spurs visit Huddersfield and cannot hold out much hope of winning. With so very little form as a guide, one must give the fullest value to the advantage of home ground in making any forecast.

Yesterday's Upsets In The Leagues

TEAMS BEATEN AT HOME

London, Aug. 28.
Three matches in the English Football League were played to-day.

Grimby performed quite well at home to hold Sunderland to a goalless draw.

In the Northern section of the Third Division, Rochdale sustained an unexpected reverse before their own supporters, losing to Barrow by the only goal scored.

Southport too found their own pasture of no advantage against Doncaster, and were defeated by the odd goal in three.—Reuter.

DERBY COUNTY

Acquisition of New Player

It may well prove that Derby County's astute move was the acquisition on a free transfer of Udall from Leicester City, a player with some experience at both right full-back and outside-right. He is thus in a position to deputise for two internationals in Cooper and Crooks.

Fees have been paid only for Bell, a half-back from Newcaston, and Bird, an outside-left from Torquay. In their cases, also, they may be regarded as reserves to international players, with Bird facing a wonderful opportunity, for Derby will have to start the season without Duncan, Scotland's outside-left, who is recuperating after an operation for appendicitis.

A FORWARD PROBLEM.
If the management agreed with supporters that last season there was an inside-forward problem, that problem still remains, and keen competition will exist between Groves and Wilman—one experienced yet lacking weight to withstand buffeting and the other dashing and plucky without a great deal of guile.

It had been thought that Blore as a young goalkeeper of promise might supplant Kirby, but there is more than a possibility of the club accepting an offer for this reserve as the staff is numerically well supplied for the last line of defence.

Of those who will not again appear in the first team, Scott, a half-back, has gone to Brentford; Hutchison an inside-forward, to Hull; Alderman to Burnley.

Goalkeeper: Blore, Kirby, Pearson (Shirebrook), Webster (Easington Welfare).

Backs: Carr, Cooper, Collin, Reid, Webb, Udall (Leicester City).

Half-backs: Barker, Haguo, Hann, Hannah, Jessop, Keen, Nicholas, Robinson, Lowe, Wright (Easington Welfare), Bell (Newcastle United).

Forwards: Bowers, Bowden, Crooks, Dobbs, Duncan, Groves, Halford, Philbin, Ramage, Randall, Roberts, Rafferty, Wilman, Bird (Torquay United), Nicholson (Easington Welfare).

good cooks. Mother. Don't you think?" was Nancy's greeting as Amy came down.

"Especially Hollandaise sauce!"

"That's not fair. You know the sauce was all right, only I forgot that I was making half quantity and put in all the lemon juice."

"The sauce was perfect except that it was so sour we couldn't eat it."

"Anyway, it taught me a good lesson. I put the gingerbread on the top shelf of the pantry hoping that young Howard wouldn't find it. Mother, you ought to have a bank vault with a time lock for special desserts. You know what old Lillian said the last time he was over at Grandmother Lowe's? She said, 'At boy eats cake like they ain't no God.'"

They were walking side by side toward the campus. As they passed the Terry house, Nancy exclaimed: "There, when I've done your errand I'm going to come back and run in to visit with Miss Rosa for a while. She's so lonely, poor soul, and such fun, too. You stop by for me on your way back. She's always saying she never sees you. Then you can stay a few minutes and we'll go home together." She gave Amy's arm a quick ecstatic squeeze.

At the rehearsal room Nancy took the music books, nodded with careless condescension to the members of the glee club—the students were "those brats" to her—and disappeared. Amy composed herself to trying an arrangement of "Yeomen of England," which she had made with allowance for the weakness of strong bass voices in the club, and after that there was a group of spirituals to be gone over.

"Balm of Gilead," "I Got Shoes," and the inevitable "I Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray." Then a final struggle with the only boy in college who had a really fine voice, but absolutely no musical instinct, the only adequate soloist.

Amy felt frayed from the strain when she started home, so much so that she forgot Nancy until she had passed the Terry house. She hurried back, opened the door without ringing and was just about to call Nancy when she heard her voice in the parlour and then another voice that Amy recognized instantly. It could belong only to Jane, Jane whom she had not seen for 15 years.

The Lifebuoy Of Health.

Baby's Own Tablets are the little children's lifebuoy of health for they keep them safe through those early years when their health is being constantly menaced by the many ailments to which children are subject.

Baby's Own Tablets are mildly laxative, they neither gripe nor purge, they are readily crumbled to powder and are therefore easily administered, and because of their pleasant taste children like them so there is no fuss or bother about taking them.

To keep your little one fit, the main essential is to keep his stomach and bowels clean and in good order, then he will derive the greatest nourishment from the food he eats and by building up his body his power of resistance to illness will be increased.

Baby's Own Tablets are the ideal stomach and bowel cleanser for little children, for they are guaranteed absolutely free from any substance which would be in any way injurious to the delicate organs. Keep a vial to Baby's Own Tablets always in the home for the immediate correction of minor stomach troubles and the health of your children will then be assured. At any chemist you can obtain this splendid health corrective.

HIGH PRAISE FROM A BRITISH ARCHITECT

"I am very pleased to be able to inform you that your damp proof wall paint has stood the damp season very well, although applied to a portion of walling, the exterior face of which is very exposed to driving rain."

Interior paint or colourwash on this portion of walling has always become very damp and fallen off in the rainy season. Your paint has, however, so far remained through the present rainy season without showing any signs of damp or falling off."

MIRACLE MAN OF MESSINES

SIR EDGEWORTH DAVID PASSES AWAY

NOTED EXPLORER AND SCIENTIST

(Special to "Telegraph")

Sydney, Aug. 28.

The death has occurred of the famous explorer-scientist, Sir Edgeworth David, who supervised the construction of the vast system of tunnels on the Western Front during the war and blew up Messines Ridge, which the Germans considered impossible owing to the nature of the soil.

He was even more famous for his discovery of fossil fauna in Australia estimated at six hundred million years old.

He was born in Wales in 1858 as the son of a clergyman, was educated at Magdalen School and New College, Oxford, and went out to New South Wales in 1882 as a member of the Geological Survey. In 1891 he was appointed professor of geology at Sydney University and he led the expedition to the Ellice Islands in 1897.

ANTARCTIC EXPERIENCE.

From 1907 to 1909 he served as scientific officer with the Shackleton Antarctic Expedition and headed the party that first climbed Mt. Erebus. While on the snow slopes of the mountain he called to Sir Douglas Mawson who was writing in his tent: "Could you spare a moment to come out to me?" Mawson said he was busy, but would come presently. After an interval David said: "I'm awfully sorry to trouble you, but I must ask you, if you don't mind, to make haste. The fact is, I've fallen into a crevasse. I'm hanging on to the edge with my fingers and I shall have to let go, if you don't come out and help me."

David led the party which reached the South Magnetic Pole on Jan. 16, 1909.

After he had raised the Austral-

AUSTRIAN MONARCHY RUMOURS

BUCHAREST REPORTS DISCOUNTED

London, Aug. 28.

In regard to Bucharest reports having reference to the Austrian Throne, it is felt in London and Rumanian opinion would not approve the adoption of any policy which might strain the solidarity of the Little Entente, and both Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia still consider that a Hapsburg restoration would be incompatible with the maintenance of peace in Europe.—Reuter.

Major and Mrs. K. L. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Flith, Mr. C. W. Bickmore, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Grey, Mr. E. W. Loveless, and Mr. L. Holt Kentwell were among the passengers who left Hongkong for Europe aboard the Blue Funnel s.s. Antenor this morning.

An Mining Corps he enlisted in it in spite of his age and went to the Western front where in 1918 he was appointed geologist to the British armies. Among the problems he tackled was that of showing the mining engineers how to cope with the water difficulty which was threatening to defeat their efforts to blow up the Messines Ridge. For his services he received the D.S.O. and was knighted (K.B.E.) in 1920.

REMARKABLE DISCOVERIES.

After resigning his chair in 1924 he made two remarkable geological discoveries which were announced in 1928. He stated that radio-active evidence showed that some of the oldest rocks in the world date back 1,600 million years. In the Mount Lofty and Hinders ranges in South Australia he found rocks containing perfectly preserved remnants of animal life millions of years older than any hitherto classified by science—a discovery that places the birth of life far earlier than had been supposed. He had been searching for these remains for 30 years, but it was not till May, 1928, that he found them by the aid of a powerful microscope. They were skeletons of animals something like sandworms or crayfish, but entirely new to science and were discovered in what were regarded as non-fossiliferous strata.

A Fellow of the Royal Society, David was awarded medals by many learned bodies.—Reuter.

MURDER OF DOLFFUSS

AUSTRIA TO ISSUE BROWN BOOK

COMPLICITY OF GERMANY

Vienna, Aug. 28.

Reports that Dr. Schuschnigg, the Austrian Chancellor, has prepared a dossier allegedly exposing German complicity in the tragic events of July, have been officially confirmed.

It was announced to-day that the Austrian Government will shortly publish all documents and evidence gathered in investigations in the form of a "Brown Book."

Publication is planned to take place prior to the opening of the next Assembly of the League of Nations.

It will deal almost entirely with the July "revolt" that led to the murder of Dr. Engelbert Dollfuss, and it is understood that it will directly accuse Germany of complicity in the plot.

VON PAPPEN'S PLANS.

It is reliably stated that von Pappen will not return to Vienna from Germany until after its publication. He will not be compelled to declare Germany's viewpoint.—Reuter.

A London paper recently published a series of pictures alleged to have been issued by a German news agency on July 22, three days before the death of Dollfuss, one of the photographs being of Dr. Dollfuss, the caption underneath being: "Dr. Dollfuss, who died of wounds received in the capture of the Chancellery!"

POLICE CRICKET MEETING

At a cricket meeting of the Police Recreation Club held at the Police Headquarters this morning, C. F. Alexander was elected Captain for the coming season with W. E. Meadows as Vice-Captain. The Police are entering a team in the Junior League as usual and practice will commence next month.

Mr. T. H. King was in the chair and commenting on the past year's activity said that it was satisfactory.
